AMERICAN WOMAN SLAIN

Mexican Bandits Shoot Wife of Mormon and Seize Young Daughter

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 4.—J. N. Quail, field secretary for the National Association for the Protection of American rights in Mexico, brought here another story of banditry and outrage in Mexico. This was the murder of an American woman, a member of the Mormon colony, and an attack upon her daughter.

The woman was Mrs. E. A. Martensen, whose home was at Guadalupe, Chihuahua. Her daughter was ten years old. Martensen had sought work in El Paso about two years ago. A few months afterward he sent $40 in gold to his wife. She called at the Guadalupe postoffice for it and three Mexicans saw her get the money.

They followed her to her home and shot through the door. One of the bullets struck Mrs. Martensen. The Mexicans broke in and forced her to tell where the money was. Then they demanded she make them some coffee. She tried to do so but fell in a faint. The Mexican bandits then dred more shots into her body.

A Challenge to Gov. Coolidge

Bills by Former Gov. Foss to meet the alarming conditions of the

FOOD CRISIS

I challenge Gov. Coolidge to at once convene the Legislature and pass the following bills.

The Governor proposed to reconvene the Legislature "after election" to settle the Transportation problem.

I propose that he reconvene the Legislature immediately and settle both the Food and Transportation problems.

HERE IS MY REMEDY

A Bill to Seize Food Supplies in Times of Public Necessity.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

The Governor of the Commonwealth, and the Mayor of Cities, and the Selectmen of Towns, through the State, City or Town Boards of Health, whenever in his or their judgment the public necessity warrants, seize such food supplies, for man or beast, as they or either of them may find within the boundaries of their jurisdiction and sell the same to residents of such jurisdiction, at a reasonable price, but such price shall not be established on a basis of any speculative or fictitious market value and the owner or owners of said food supplies shall be entitled to recover from the Commonwealth, the City or Town that seized said food supplies such a sum of money for the same as shall be reasonable, but speculative and fictitious market prices shall not be paid or recovered for the same.

If the parties seizing said supplies cannot agree with the owner or owners thereof upon the price to be paid therefor, either party may apply to the Superior Court for the county in which such supplies were seized, for a trial by jury, and said Superior Court shall thereupon order a trial thereof within sixty days of the filing of said petition in said court, unless both parties file in said court an agreement in writing for a later date of trial.

A Bill Requiring Owners of Cold Storage Warehouses to Register the Kind and Quantity of Food Placed Therein With the Board of Health of Each City and Town.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

The owners of every cold storage warehouse, or other warehouse in the Commonwealth used for storing of food, shall within thirty days after the passage of this Act report in writing to the Board of Health in said city or town where such warehouse is located, the kind and quantity of food in said warehouse, and the date when it was placed therein, and daily thereafter, Sundays and holidays excepted, said owners shall file a written statement with said Board of Health of the kind and quantity of food that had been placed in said warehouse since the last statement so filed by them, and the kind and quantity of food that had been removed from said warehouse during the same period of time.

Every violation of this Act shall be punished by a fine of not less than one thousand (1,000) dollars nor more than ten thousand (10,000) dollars, and imprisonment in the State Prison for not more than five years; and if a corporation shall be engaged in said warehouse business and violates any of the provisions of this Act, the President, Treasurer and Directors of said corporation shall be punished as other violators of this Act, and the charter of said corporation shall be revoked.

By International News Service.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The Lawson "aerial Pullman," which left Buffalo early today, arrived at Bethka Field here at 10:23. On board were ten passengers, one a woman. In landing on the soft, rough field, the plane was damaged about its nose. No one was injured. The accident probably will delay the plane here for two days for repair.

HINT ACTION BY GRAND JURY ON OIL 'FRAUD'

Hints of possible Grand Jury action in the alleged oil fraud on the city of Boston were rife today at City Hall, following a report sent to Mayor Peters by the Finance Commission.

According to the report, the city was overcharged $11,500 through transactions in buying 250,000 gallons of oil for roads, negotiated between Contractor M. P. Scully and Thomas W. Dawson, city purchasing agent.

The commission finds that Dawson was "without proper authority," and that his action was "unwarranted" and "illegal," and recommends that he be disciplined or censured for his "violation of the charter provisions."

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 4.—Officials of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes announced today that the counting of the ballots in the referendum of that organization of the railway shop laborers on the question of striking if their demands for higher wages, now being considered at Washington, were refused, was completed last night and showed 325,000 for a strike and 5,000 against such action.

Officials expressed every confidence however, that satisfactory action would be taken by the railroad administration to avert the strike. The convention of the brotherhood will consider the matter at Monday morning's meeting here.

COAL MINERS' STRIKE NOV. 1 THREATENED

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 4. — Bituminous coal miners of the United States will strike November 1 unless their demands for shorter work day and higher wages are met by that time, it was said by officials of the United Mine Workers of America here today. The up of the bituminous mines of the country even for a few days in the face of the present depleted production, would plunge the country into a condition that would realize experiences of former "heatless Mondays," the miners' leaders asserted.

REFERS TO IRELAND'S WRONGS

President in Columbus Speech Says He Is Hopeful They Will Be Righted

By International News Service.

Memorial Hall, Columbus, O., Sept. 4. — To the strains of "Dixie," played by an orchestra led by a young woman, President Wilson entered Memorial Hall at 11:25 today. The President plainly appreciated the compliment and bowed smilingly to the big crowd, which filled every inch of space in the structure.

Because of the street car strike, the crowd that greeted the President in the business centre of Columbus was much smaller than had been anticipated. Cloudy skies and a slight rain marked the weather conditions. However, the reception pleased the President and he was all smiles as he returned the greetings.

Cheering that lasted a trifle more than a minute greeted the President and Mrs. Wilson as they took their seats on the platform in the hall. On behalf of the reception committee, Mrs. Wilson was presented a huge bouquet of pink roses, tied with pink ribbons.

Following a very brief introductory address by President Thompson of Ohio State University, former Governor Campbell was introduced. He characterized President Wilson as "The first citizen of the big, round world" and the President again was warmly applauded as he strode to the front of the platform and began his address. He said:

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

"It is with great pleasure that I greet you. I have long chafed at confinement in Washington. I have wanted to report to you and to other citizens of the United

Wilson Refers to Irish Wrongs and His Friendship for Italy

President Wilson in his speech at Columbus today for the first time referred inferentially to Irish wrongs and his friendship for Italy as follows:

America is the friend of mankind, and her people know it. If my adversary is armed and I am not, I do not press the controversy. And that will be the attitude of nations of the world when the League is a fact. Some of us wished that the treaty could reach some other age-long wrongs in Europe. But we could not drag these into the treaty. But I am hopeful that the time will come when these wrongs, over which we had no jurisdiction will be righted.

There is no one who sympathized more with Italy than I. But I had to refuse to give Italy territory inhabited by Slavic peoples. They wanted the Adriatic for military reasons. If there is no League of Nations, Italy needs this territory, but if there is a League of Nations Italy need not fear. The nations of the world will protect Italy. I had rather have everybody on my side than be armed to the teeth.

BOMB IS HURLED AT EGYPTIAN PREMIER

London, Sept. 4.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate the Egyptian Premier with a bomb during a demonstration, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Cairo today. The bomb was thrown while the Premier was on route to his office. An Egyptian was later arrested.

The would-be assassin was a theological student and made no effort to escape. He had concealed the bomb in a basket of grapes. The city is quiet.

SAYS REGULATNG PACKERS MEANS HIGHER PRICES

Washington, Sept. 4.—Lee Russell, one of the largest cattle producers in Texas, appearing before the Senate Agricultural Committee today to oppose bills to regulate and license the packing industry, said that curtailed production, with higher prices that accompany such a condition, was "threatened by radicalism and unfair agitation in the Senate against the largest and most important industry in the United States. I feel there is too much prejudice in these bills before this committee," he continued.

MORE OF ANNA HELD'S COSTUMES ARE SOLD

New York, Sept. 4.—Five trunks of costumes were disposed of in the second day of the sale of the effects which once adorned the famous comedienne, Anna Held. The sale is being conducted at room 117, the Waldorf-Astoria.

A corduroy boy's suit, worn by Miss Held in "The Little Duchess," in which she appeared in New York nineteen years ago, was sold for $1. The purchase was made by an unusually pretty young girl, who refused to give her name. The famous "peacock gown" still awaits a purchaser.

Vanity Causes High Price of Shoes, Says Expert

By International News Service.

New York, Sept. 4.—If the public would display more sanity and less vanity in buying shoes, a noticeable depreciation in prices soon would be felt.

This is the gist of a statement issued by Michael Friedman, member of New York's fair price committee, in a report in which he declares shoe manufacturers have not profiteered.

In 1914, he says, leather sold for 30 cents a square foot. Today it brings $1.50. Shoes that can be bought in New York for $15 are sold in London for $30 and in Paris for $40.

HARVARD DRIVE FOR 11 MILLION OPENS SOON

Final plans for the campaign to raise an $11,000,000 Harvard endowment fund will be discussed tomorrow at a luncheon in the Exchange Club given to sixty team captains and heads of organizations. The luncheon, to be given by Thomas Nelson Perkins, '91, chairman of the Greater Boston Committee, will start at 1 o'clock.

The sixty Harvard alumni will be asked to conduct a personal canvass of more than 10,000 graduates and other Harvard men residing in Boston, Norfolk, Suffolk and the southern half of Middlesex counties which comprise the Greater Boston committee's district.

ATTEMPT TO END ACTORS' STRIKE IS FAILURE

Leaders of the theatrical strike in Boston today declared that all attempts at settlement had failed. Hal Forde, head of the executive committee of the Actors' Equity Association, said he was laying plans on the theory that the strike might last for weeks.

The failure of attempts at compromise came after optimistic reports had been issued from the camps of both the managers and the actors. Mr. Forde stated that in some instances performers now in Boston had been ordered not to leave the city as the strike might be brought to an end at any moment.

TERMINAL MAIL CLERKS THREATEN TO QUIT WORK

Chicago, Sept. 4.—A walkout of postal clerks of railroad terminal offices is threatened for October 1. Demanding a bonus of $500, the Chicago Terminal Railway Postal Clerks' Association has notified Postmaster-General Burleson, it was announced today, that unless the bonus is forthcoming they will resign en masse on that date.

Demand Complete Surrender on Part of Commissioner Curtis, Says President McInness

Though every indication is that Commissioner Curtis is ready to decide against the Policemen's Union and order the discharge from the department of its officers, the men are determined to stand by their guns. Through President McInness today it was stated that they still insist in their right to organize and affiliate.

"We demand," said President McInnes, following a conference between the union officers, "that we be permitted to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor. We shall insist on that demand, regardless of what fate may be in store for us.

"The patrolmen of the department, who are members of the union, have registered their choice. They have elected us to represent them in this matter. It is our duty to them to stand on the demands we have made. The union demands an uncompromising surrender."

PARKER ADVISES CURTIS.

Commissioner Curtis has been receiving legal advice from former Attorney-general Herbert Parker, and it is understood that as between the opinion of Mr. Parker and those held by members of the Mayor's committee and the counsel for the union, there is a wide difference of opinion.

Mr. Parker, it is understood, contends that Commissioner Curtis is now acting in a judicial capacity. Others insist that he is acting as an executive. They contend that as an executive he has a right to arbitrate with the men and arrive at some agreement which will avert serious trouble for Boston.

It is understood that the commissioner has been informed that so far as the present cases are concerned he is now occupying the position of a justice and hence cannot deal, but must administer the law. This difference of opinion may prove to be the

CONGRESS MAY GET TAGUE-FITZ BALLOTS

Washington, Sept. 4.—The Board of Election Supervisors of Boston probably will be brought before the House Elections Committee No. 2 in the Tague-Fitzgerald contested election case. The board would be required to bring all the ballots cast in the election for the candidates for Congress with a recount before the committee. A unanimous report from the committee to this effect was presented to the House today and adoption of a resolution calling the Boston election supervisors was asked by Chairman Goodall of the committee. Representative Blanton of Texas objected and the resolution went over for the day.

MAGNA CHARTA OF LABOR IN TREATY, SAYS WILSON

Will Safeguard Rights of Women and Children in Industry, He Declares

States. It has become increasingly necessary that I should report to you.

"After all the various angles that the treaty has been held up to you I think that you want to to know what is in that treaty. It is unique. I cannot do you a better service nor the peace of the world a better service than to tell you what this treaty does.

"It seeks to punish a nation that attempted to perpetrate one of the greatest wrongs in history. The men in Paris wanted to do justice. They wanted to punish Germany for her utter disregard for human rights, for wrongs to women and children. The people of Europe not only saw their country devastated, but a reign of terror inaugurated.

"The people who framed this treaty had no desire to overwhelm Germany. But they intended to burn into the souls of the German people the wrongs they permitted their rulers to perpetrate.

"I believe from what I can learn that there is a conscious-ness in German hearts of the wrongs committed. The Austrian delegates admitted that the war was a crime.

"THERE IS NO INDEMNITY."

"Everything in the treaty was designed not to humiliate Germany, but to right the wrongs that she had done. No indemnity is claimed in this treaty, only reparation. There is no indemnity. Do not forget that. And in the terms of reparation they are framed with an object which considers Germany's ability to pay.

"I am astonished at some of the speeches made. They carry statements, not facts. This treaty is not intended to end this single war. It is intended to serve notice on any nation that attempts such aggression in the future that the nations of the world are united to punish such attempts.

The President then paid high tribute to the allied cause, declaring that the promises made to the people of the United States must be carried out. He declared that in taking the "flower of American youth" to fight the war the nation had promised that the object would be to end wars. Disregard of this promise would be an infamy, the President declared. Continuing he said:

"This is what the League of Nations is for. It is to prove to the nations of the world that the nations will combine against any nation that would emulate Germany's example.

"The League of Nations is based on the experience of the present war. Germany never would have entered this war if she had known that Great Britain and the United States were to enter it.

"When you are told that the League of Nations is for any purpose but to prevent war, tell them that is not so. The passions and rivalries of this war are not ended. Unless there is a League of Nations the most ambitious nations will be ready to attempt aggressions the moment the world has recovered from the financial strain of the present war.

NEW NATIONS CREATED.

"This treaty builds up nations that never could have gained their freedom in any other way. They are built up by gifts. The Austrian-Hungarian government was held together by military forces. Its people did not want to live together. Hungary, a willing partner, because she wanted Austria's strength, combined entirely with Jugo-Slavia. Bohemia was an unhappy partner. So was Poland, divided between Russia, Austria and Germany.

"Poland could never have won her independence if it had not been for the peace treaty. Small nations had been crushed by the combined power of Europe. They did not intend the small nations should have the right to live their own lives. The American principle was that they have that right. That is what we fought for in Paris. Strategic reasons did not count. We gave the people their own rights.

"Strategic reasons could not count. There is no one who sympathizes more with Italy than I, but I had to refuse to give Italy territory inhabited by Slavic peoples.

"They wanted the Adriatic for military reasons. If there is no League of Nations, Italy needs this territory, but if there is a League of Nations Italy need not fear. The nations of the world will protect Italy. I had rather have everybody on my side then be armed to the teeth. Sympathy of mankind will be behind the League of Nations."

REFERENCE TO IRELAND.

The President declared that he believed he could interpret the sentiment of the people better than some of his critics, and added:

"America is the friend of mankind, and her people know it. If my adversary is armed and I am not, I do not press the controversy. And that will be the attitude of nations of the world when the league is a fact. Some of us winced that the treaty could reach some other age-long wrongs in Europe. But we could not drag these into the treaty. But I am hopeful that the time will come "when these wrongs, over which we had no jurisdiction, will be righted."

This was the first time that the President had referred, even by inference, to the Irish question, and his words were listened to by his audience with the deepest attention.

He declared that revolutions do not start overnight, quoting Carlyle's reference to the years of hate behind the French Revolution, and adding:

"Wars come from the seed of wrongs, not of right. This treaty is designed to right the wrongs of Europe. It is a measurable success. Do not forget this fact. There are regions in Europe where you cannot draw national lines. There must be approximate lines drawn in many cases. That is what we have done. That is what is being done in the Austrian treaty."

FOR SELF-DETERMINATION.

The President then explained how the various boundary lines were drawn in the treaty, explaining that plebescites were necessary to determine exactly what nation certain peoples wanted to live under. This statement was greeted with applause.

"These people shall have their choice of government," said the President. He declared that this was the governing principle that actuated the peace conference. He told how he had informed the Italian peace delegates that if they were to have every plain where their racial demands were in the ascendancy, it might be necessary to cede New York to them, as there were as many Italians in New York as there are in Rome.

"This treaty also contains a magna charta of labor," he continued. "Next month there will meet in Washington an assembly of workingmen, who represent the labor of the world. It will meet, let me tell you, whether this treaty is ratified or not.

"It will consider the rights of women workers, of child-workers. It will forecast the day when peoples will be content in their lives. It will deal with all phases of compensation and otherwise.

"Nations consist of their people, not of their governments. Heretofore nations have been thought of as governments only. This is not true in this treaty. Why, while Germany loses her colonies under this treaty, they are not annexed to any other nation. These colonies are not to be exploited. Their people cannot be used to fight the battles of nations that have mandatories over them. The mandatory power must see that the peoples of these colonies are protected and their welfare safeguarded.

URGES READING OF TREATY.

"I used to be told that this was a time when the mind was monarch. I do not believe this. This treaty designs to draw human endeavor together and unite the better passions of peoples of the world. That is the treaty. Did you ever hear of it before? Did anyone before tell you this. I want all Americans to read the treaty themselves and for if not, if it is too technical. I wish they would read the interpretation of men who made it.

"I hear a great deal about the selfishness of other governments. It would be doing an injustice to the high-minded men with whom I was associated on the other side of the water, if I did not say their objects always were of the best. We differed about details. But we never differed about principle.

"If I could not have brought back the kind of treaty I did bring back, I never would have come back.

"This treaty expresses the heart of the great peoples who were at war with Germany.

"I do not come to debate the treaty. It debates itself. I am here to expound the treaty. I want to urge you to assist the people of America in support of this treaty. Don't let men pull this treaty down. As I passed through the ranks of those youngsters in khaki five minutes ago, I felt I could salute them. I felt they would accept what I accomplished.

"The treaty will be accepted. I have never doubted that fact.

"There has been impatient of delay. But this not dangerous delay. Do you know the world is waiting on America today? The people wait on us. America today is the only nation fully trusted by the people everywhere and we will tell them so."

Italy Has Air Mail in Case Postal Men Strike

Rome, Sept. 4.—Detailed plans for a national airplane service to carry the mails have been worked out by the Italian government in the event of a railway and postal strike.

The scheme was first considered when a general strike including railway and postal employes, was threatened late last month. The government quietly went to work and quickly organized the groundwork for an air service that would carry the mails and a limited number of passengers.

URGES SUPREME TRIBUNAL FOR RAILWAYS

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Creation of what in effect would be a supreme court of railways, vested with broadest powers and including that of fixing wages and working hours of the men, was advocated by Senator Underwood of Alabama in a speech in the Senate today.

"Such a tribunal," said Senator Underwood, "must not only have the power and be prepared to do what is right and just by the labor employed on the railroads, but must have authority and power to see that property is not confiscated by its decisions."

"A tribunal of this kind must also have authority and opportunity to consider the rights of the shippers and travelers of America, who in the last analysis will bear any increased burden that falls on the carriage of property or persons over the transportation lines. This tribunal must have authority and power to protect the rights of the whole people of the United States against the recurrence of lockouts and strikes.

"All of these questions must be determined by a court or an independent commission, but their findings, except as far as they may determine the rate for transportation that must be paid by the railroad companies and the rate of wage that must be received by the men if they continue their employment, will be academic, because they will have no power to operate on the side of the problem in which the general public is interested.

"It is essential that the board or commission that is given the power to adjust the wage scale of the men must also have power to reflect its findings into the rates charged for the transportation of persons and property over the railroads.

"It is therefore clear to me that the same power that has the right to fix the rates of wage and the hours of labor on the great transportation companies of the United States, and that this power and this duty should be given irrevocably to a governmental commission or board in order that it may do justice between employe and employer.

"Men will not strike against the jus...cision of the government. After a fair determination of the controversy by an impartial tribunal, public opinion will force the contending parties to accept the verdict rendered as final."

OUTLINE PLANS FOR ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL

Plans for a memorial to Theodore Roosevelt were discussed today at a meeting of the Roosevelt Memorial Association at the Copley-Plaza. Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, Senator Kellogg of Minnesota, and William Boyce Thompson made addresses.

It was announced that the national committee of the association had been enlarged by the addition of thirty-three members, including: Ole Hanson, retiring Mayor of Seattle, Wash.; Congressman James A. Gallivan of Boston, Frank A. Munsey, Alton B. Parker, Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler of San Francisco, Mayor N. P. Snyder of Los Angeles, Elbert H. Gary and Henry L. Stoddard of New York.

General Edwards in his address urged universal training for civilians. Referring to the late ex-President Roosevelt, he said:

"My first interest in Theodore Roosevelt came during the coal strike. I was a subordinate in the War Department at the time, and of course I was interested when the President said, 'If the strike is prolonged, I'll mine the coal with the army.' I wish to God that President Roosevelt were here today to help regenerate this country."

Colonel Thompson outlined the plans of the association, which are: To erect a suitable monument in Washington; to acquire, develop and maintain a park at Oyster Bay, which may ultimately include Sagamore Hill, and to establish and endow an incorporated society to promote the policies and ideals of Roosevelt.

He suggested that a time limit be set for voluntary contributions, and the money be applied immediately to the development of the park at Oyster Bay.

Senator Kellogg said, in part: "It is the great duty of the American people to perpetuate the work and spirit of one of the greatest citizens, one of the greatest Presidents and one of the greatest men of all ages."

FUSSY PUBLIC TO BLAME FOR HIGH MEAT PRICES, SAY DEALERS

COMMISSION TO SUMMON MORE BUTCHERS

Investigation of the local meat situation by the Commission on the Necessaries of Life at the State House today revealed that—

1—Retailer dealers claim the public's insistence on high-priced cuts of meat serves to keep up the price of all meats.

2—Agents of the packers deny any big reduction in wholesale prices recently, and declare beef is higher today than any previous day this week.

3—Big market dealers charge the same whether large orders are paid for in cash and carried; or are sold on credit, and shipped by express.

4—The buying of cheaper cuts, the consumption of more fish, and the ending of all agitation over high prices are the three solutions offered by dealers for the high costs.

5—The commission will summon all meat dealers who have neglected to accede to its request to appear and give evidence.

The retail price of meat in this city will drop within a short time, according to E. F. Barrett, proprietor of a stall in Faneuil Hall Market, who testified today:

He said that the present high prices were due to the demand of the public for expensive cuts, but admitted he had heard of a decrease in the wholesale prices amounting to about 35 per cent.

Other witnesses, all meat dealers, protested that their profits were small and that the retailer was the most abused man in Boston. One man urged that the public eat more fish, which he handled as a side line.

BEEF LEADING SELLER.

Mr. Barrett, the first witness, said that every fourth customer wanted rump steak, while four years ago they would buy a "hunk of beef for a stew." He asserted women refuse to take the cheaper cuts, protesting "My husband won't eat this, and my husband won't eat that."

"If I have to supply every husband with rump steak and kidney chops," said Mr. Barrett, "I must charge more. I have other meat on hand which I can't sell, and must make up for it."

The witness said that 75 per cent. of his sales were beef, 15 per cent. lamb and the remainder pork products. He said his firm pays express charges on orders amounting to $3.50 or over and that 75 per cent. of his business was done over the telephone. Mr. Barrett said that he got the highest prices for the best selling meats, and that he figured he must get 20 per cent. gross profit on the total volume of business.

NOT GETTING RICH.

Some goods, the witness testified, did not clear $1 on the hundredweight, and out of the 20 per cent. profits it cost him 12½ per cent. to do business. Mr. Barrett declared that he was not getting rich and had heard of no retailer who had become rich during the last two years.

For the month of June the witness said his expenses were as follows:

Express and jobbing	$286
Paper and twine	160
Cold storage	11
Rent	118
Telephone	32
Light	12
Salaries	850

The salaries, he testified, were those of five employes and his own, the exact amount of the latter not being specified.

Questioned by Chairman Charles H. Adams, Mayor of Melrose, Mr. Barrett admitted he had heard of a decrease in wholesale prices amounting to about 35 per cent. He said some cuts had also gone down in retail markets, but the majority remained the same prices as two weeks ago. This was due, he said, to the fact that the meat bought by the dealers at the old price had not been used up.

PRICES GOING DOWN.

The witness said he did not look for materially lower wholesale prices soon, but thought retail prices would be some lower.

Warren Low of Fitchburg, who worked for Swift & Company thirty-seven years, and who claimed that he was put out of business by that concern four years ago, was the next witness.

Mr. Low said that there was too "wide a spread" between the price of cattle and beef delivered in Boston. He said the packers tried to make up the profit lost in hides out of meat. He also declared that the packers took the wholesalers' profit in selling direct to retailers.

The witness said that Swift & Co. refused to pay him more than 2½ per cent. on lamb, 5 per cent. on beef and ¼ of a cent a pound on lard.

ARTHUR E. DORR HEARD.

Arthur E. Dorr, who conducts a market at North and Union streets, said that his gross profit was between 17 per cent. and 18 per cent. on a business of $100,000 a year. Out of this profit he said it cost him 14 per cent. to do business, leaving about 3 per cent., which he considered a fair profit. Mr. Dorr said he had heard of slight reductions in wholesale prices, but nothing like 35 per cent.

W. D. Pulis of Franklin street, Allston, manager of the H. W. Longfellow Company, testified that he handled meats, groceries and fish, about half the business being done in meats. He suggested that eating more fish would reduce the cost of living. Mr. Pulis admitted in answer to questions that he would like to handle more fish, but should not care to eat more himself.

ASHAMED OF HIS PROFIT.

Pulis said he was willing to give the commission the figures of his net yearly profit, but didn't see why the public must know it.

"I don't see why you should hesitate—unless because it is so big," said Commissioner Willard.

"I hesitate because it is so small. I'm ashamed of it," replied the witness. Nine hundred dollars was my clean-up for the year."

George N. Newell, manager of Chamberlain & Co., Inc., local agents for Morris & Co., the packers, denied that there has been any great reduction in the wholesale price of beef recently.

"As a matter of fact, beef is higher today than it has been for two weeks this week," said Mr. Newell. "Here are the figures for the past few weeks on whole cattle:

"Last week, $15.83; two weeks ago, $15.76; three weeks ago, $17.48; four weeks ago, $17.48, which two weeks ago, $16.83; six weeks ago, $10.92; seven weeks ago, $10.55."

Asked by Chairman Adams how the price of meat to the consumer might be lowered, Newell replied: "Stop all this agitation and let the law of supply and demand regulate matters naturally."

Before leaving the witness chair Newell said: "I want it down on record that I am no profiteer. I have never in the twelve years I have been in business made 6 per cent gross or 1 per cent. net profit."

The head of Rhodes Brothers testified that beef is today 3 cents less a pound than it was ten days ago, while lamb has decreased still more in price. He gave the lie direct to other testimony, saying that the other witnesses did not know the meat business.

George H. Derby, responded to the appeal of the commissioners for remarks from citizens present.

"Most of the commission and committees in this State House are smothering committees," he said, "I hope your gentlemen will be a success and do a good job."

After announcing that summonses would be issued for those dealers who had not appeared today, the commission adjourned until Monday.

BOSTON WOMEN JOIN WAR ON PROFITEERS

Problem Simply One of Team Work by Housewives of Nation, Declares Expert

Mrs. George W. Coleman, president of the Boston Women's City Club, and Mrs. George Minot Baker, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, have been appealed to help reduce the cost of living.

These prominent Boston women have received letters from Mrs. Charles Ashley Murphy of New York asking that their organizations cooperate with the Women's National Committee in the campaign against retail profiteers.

The letters state that Boston women can aid greatly in reducing the cost of living, and that the problem is simply one of team work.

Accompanying the letters were questionnaires, provided to keep tabs on the "corner grocery."

WAR ON PROFITEERS.

The questionnaires are for distribution among members of the organizations, each to be filled out by some housewife and returned to the central office in New York. In this way the local housewife can keep tabs on her retail grocer, and the combined efforts of two hundred wives of such women is the backbone of the campaign. By its means, the national committee will wage war on the profiteer.

Food prices have already been lowered through the efforts of the women of the country. It is the women who must make this reform countrywide.

A PRACTICAL REMEDY.

The committee has a practical remedy which it is spreading broadcast. It says that the whole question of high prices is economic, and that if the 20,000,000 housekeepers of America will study economics, even a little bit, they can send food prices downward, especially now that they hate the vote. Heretofore it would not have been so easy.

In other words, the women of America are being called upon to lift the yoke of exorbitant prices from the shoulders of women for all time.

The Women's National Economic Committee is four weeks old, but already it reaches far West and South, with headquarters at No. 72-76 Fifth street, New York City. Clubwomen of Illinois, South Carolina, Iowa, Michigan, New Jersey, West Virginia, Ohio and other States were collecting information as to profiteering within a fortnight of the formation of the national committee. Evidence at headquarters already shows that New York is full of profiteers. Other communities are fast producing similar evidence.

TOO GENEROUS TO FOREIGNERS.

Mrs. Murphy, home economic consultant and advisory counsel on the national committee, declares that the people of this country are largely responsible, through their very generosity to foreign nations suffering from the war, for the present high prices.

"No one group is responsible for the altitude of foodstuffs," she said. "We must remember that we have been largely responsible in bringing the present crisis to pass. Every time we send 1,000 bushels of wheat to the starving children of Belgium we take 1,000 bushels of wheat out of the storehouses of this country. There is only a certain amount of wheat produced in this country. Naturally, the demand exceeds the supply and prices shoot skyward. Prices are made by demand. If two or more persons want a certain article, the price goes up, whereas if only one person desires it the price remains stationary.

Probe 'L' for 'Watered' Stock, Says Eastman

An appraisal of the property of the Boston Elevated to determine whether there is any "water" in it was suggested by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman today as the first step in solving the Elevated fare problem.

Mr. Eastman came on from Washington to address the Street Railway Commissioners, which is considering the Elevated problem as well as the general street railways situation. Having been for several years a commissioner of public service Commissioner, and previously secretary of the Public Franchise League, he is looked upon as an authority in street railway matters.

"Practically all of the Elevated stock," Mr. Eastman said, "has been issued with the approval of public authorities. Nearly all expenditures have been supervised before they were allowed to be incurred, but there is a widespread feeling that the stock is badly watered, and while I do not believe it is justified, perhaps it will be well to ascertain the facts by means of an appraisal to determine how much of the money expended by this company was properly and prudently invested."

Mr. Eastman said the Elevated problem was especially difficult because of the fact that last year the Legislature made with the owners of the property a contract which is to continue in effect for nearly five years longer, notwithstanding the fact that the contract has become universally unpopular, there appears little opportunity to escape it.

INVESTORS ARE SHY.

He declared that the permission given the Elevated to collect high fares has really benefited the road but little, because its credit has not been improved. From the standpoint of possible investors in Elevated securities, he said, the present contract is only a temporary arrangement, and because of the uncertainty as to what will happen when it expires there is little inclination to invest in Elevated stock.

In the circumstances, he said, the Commonwealth alone can improve the Elevated's credit. The first step should be the purchase of the Cambridge subway, which would give the company a credit of $4,000,000 of working capital; the second step should be to place upon the public as distinguished from the car riders, the burden of paying rentals for all other subways and tunnels. These, he said, are merely underground streets, constructed largely for the purpose of relieving congestion on the surface streets and of avoiding the ultimate necessity of widening many of the business streets in Boston.

FOR PUBLIC OPERATION.

As to the general street railway problem, Mr. Eastman favored further trial of public operation, although he admitted that in the end public ownership may be necessary. He said street railway operation would be the most difficult field of public utility into which the State could enter, and before embarking upon it the real situation should be carefully clear to the public in order that it may not be misled by false hopes.

SERBIA REFUSES TO SIGN.

It is authoritatively stated that Serbia has decided to refuse to sign the peace treaty with Austria because Serbia does not recognize the clause protecting the minority rights of Jugo-Slavia, taking the view that such a concession would be a blow to her Serbian sovereign rights. Roumania declines to sign the treaty on similar grounds.

A member of the Jugo-Slav peace delegation said: "Serbia will be extremely desirous of retaining President Wilson's friendship and good will, but Universal Service today that no final decision had yet been reached, but he admitted that Serbia has not yet resolved to sign the treaty.

RUMANIA MAKING THREATS.

Rumania, having defied the Peace Conference by her high-handed actions at Budapest, now protests against the American proposal to turn over the Dobrich district of the Dobrudja to Bulgaria.

Rumania declares that a victorious nation never before has been requested to divest herself of part of her land as a gift on behalf of the vanquished. She admits that the majority of the population is non-Rumanian, but points out that the Vlahs district, in northwestern Bulgaria, is largely Rumanian, yet is not claimed by Rumania.

At the same time Rumania is menacing Serbia, the quarrel between the two threatening to involve the Banat of Temesvar.

THREAT OF NEW WAR IN THE BALKANS

Serbia, in Angry Mood, Refuses to Sign the Treaty With Austria

Paris, Sept. 4.—The gravest discord is developing in the Balkans and the question is again uppermost in Europe's mind as to whether southeastern Europe is about to start fresh bloodshed on a colossal scale.

Diplomats here today agreed the situation was never worse, even in the days of Ottoman suzerainty. Anything may be expected to happen within the next few days, perhaps hours.

LA FOLLETTE DEBATES OIL BILL SIX DAYS

Washington, Sept. 4—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin finished his sixth day of debate against the oil land leasing bill, with a warning to the Senate that the country will soon demand to be freed from the "monsters that have this country by the throat, such as the Standard Oil Company."

Senator La Follette proposed an amendment to the bill, which would give the government the right to fix prices of oil taken under government leases. It was defeated, 48 to 16.

New Duties for Miss Remele

Miss Ethel Remele, acting head resident of the Elizabeth Peabody House, has become a member of the Education for Citizenship Committee of the Boston Equal Suffrage Association for Good Government. The committee holds its first meeting of the season at the Women's City Club, September 10.

REED TO POINT OUT DANGERS IN LEAGUE

A great mass meeting to give voice to the protest against the League of Nations will be held in Symphony Hall under the auspices of the Boston American on Wednesday evening, September 10.

It will be a non-partisan gathering for red-blooded Americans.

Noted speakers of both great parties united in the common impulse to defend American liberties will address the meeting.

One of the foremost orators in the United States and the chief speaker, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri.

Senator Reed cannot be accused of partisanship in declaring against the League of Nations in opposition to many men of his own party and a Democratic President of the United States.

The President this week opens a campaign in behalf of the League of Nations.

In fact, what is considered the greatest debate which America ever knew is now under way. The President and his supporters will tell why the League of Nations should be adopted.

Men within and without the President's own party who differ with him will tell why we should not commit ourselves to the League of Nations.

Boston, seat of culture and learning, which played such a prominent part in the founding of the Republic, will have the privilege of hearing the "other side" first, from able speakers who have attracted large and enthusiastic audiences wherever and wherever they have spoken on this subject, throughout the United States.

Within a few weeks the League of Nations will be discredited or it will be an accomplished fact.

Whether you are for or against the League of Nations you should not fail to attend the great mass meeting at Symphony Hall and inform yourself of the reasons urged against the League.

No phase of the league discussion will be omitted. Ireland's claims will be considered, as they are inseparable from any discussion of the league.

So will those of Korea, India and Egypt. Speakers will discuss the moral question involved in the Shantung Peninsula.

Do you believe the League of Nations is a peace league?

Senator Reed of Missouri has declared that so far from securing peace the league will force America into every future European and Asiatic trade 10 to protect thirty-two foreign nations whenever any of them are attacked.

Should Great Britain have six votes to our one in deciding on purely American questions?

Should the size of our army and navy be determined by foreign nations?

These and other questions are to be answered by able speakers at this meeting. Even if you favor the League of Nations do not have it said of you that you only heard one side. Hear both sides, then form your opinion.

Later announcements will give the complete program of the meeting together with a list of the speakers. Watch for them.

Young Miller has been interested in unions since he put on overalls.

Pure Milk and pure Bond Bread make husky healthy boys

GIVE a boy or girl the right food—and plenty of healthy exercise, and good health comes to him as naturally as flowers thrive with sunshine and rain.

If your children are under-weight, under-developed—if they are cross, nervous and sickly, the chances are that they are not getting the right food.

Six food elements growing boys and girls must have

Health and proper growth depend on food, and are impossible if one of these six elements is lacking or insufficient.

1. Proteids—Tissue and bone-building foods.
2. Carbohydrates (starchy foods) energy producing.
3. Fats—Producing heat and energy.
4. Minerals (Lime phosphorus, salt, etc.) Foods that build bones and regulate bodily functions.
5. "Vitamines"—growth-inducing elements present in wheat and milk.
6. Water.

Bond Bread and pure milk yield most nourishment at least cost

Good bread and pure milk contain all of these six life-giving elements in proper proportions, and in the most easily digestible forms.

Besides being better food, Bond Bread and milk cost less than any other food, nourishment considered.

We would all be healthier, and wealthier if we cut down on meat and ate more Bond Bread and milk.

Change for a month to Bond Bread and milk and watch your children's health improve.

The purity of Bond Bread is safeguarded as thoroughly as the purity of milk

The laws which enforce pure milk are no more strict and rigid than Bond Bread's own pure food laws.

Not only are all the ingredients listed on the wrapper of Bond Bread—and guaranteed pure by the Bond of the General Baking Company—

But the Bond Bread process, patterned after the best home baked loaves submitted by local housewives in our baking contest, makes every grain of wheat yield its nourishment in the most palatable and digestible form.

Bond Bread is so named because each loaf bears this bond of the General Baking Company

WOMAN AT BAR MEETING URGES FINES REFORM

Would Abolish Modern System of "Imprisonment for Debt" Under Present Law

Abolition of the practice of sentencing offenders to jail terms for non-payment of fines and debts was urged by a woman delegate at the forty-second annual convention of the American Bar Association.

The champion of this proposed reform is Edith Abbott of the University of Chicago and the Chicago School of Civics and Philanthropy and chairman of Committee H. It was in reporting for this committee on the subject of "Probation and Suspended Sentence" that she advocated the change in the court system of the country.

She gave surprising figures and declared statistics showed that "58 per cent. of all persons committed to prison in our country are committed not for crime, but for their poverty, because they were too poor to pay the fines imposed by our courts."

"The extent of this modern system of imprisonment for debt," she said, "is shown in the following figures: In a single year, 291,213 poor persons were imprisoned for non-payment of fines; and among them were more than 6,000 children of juvenile court age (seventeen or under). For inability to pay fines of less than $5, 35,563 persons were imprisoned and 129,713 for fines of less than $10.

MORE COMMON IN SOUTH.

"Imprisonment for non-payment varies in different sections of the county and is, of course, more common in the South than in the North. Sixty-eight per cent. of all prisoners in the South Atlantic States are committed only for inability to pay fines, and the percentage falls to 43 per cent. in the Middle Atlantic States and to 43 per cent. in New England.

"To members of this institute, to those who know the noisome, verminous, dark, ill-ventilated local prisons to which these persons are sent to spend their time in idleness and demoralizing companionship, the cruelty and waste of such punishment is obvious.

"Social reformers of today have a right to look to an association composed of American lawyers to see that the theory and practise alike of our criminal law be made to conform to our modern ideas of social, the criminal law of England, more humane and more democratic than our. We cannot afford to lag too far behind our English cousins in this field."

Judge George T. Page, president of the association and judge of the United States Circuit Court of Illinois, paid a tribute to the women delegates and to all women filling public positions, in the course of his annual address at the opening session.

"Some people," said he, "have affected surprise at the submission of the woman suffrage amendment, but the causes that paved the way for that amendment have been open and obvious for many years.

"It has been publicly advocated, talked about and insisted upon for a half century. As a matter of fact, the amendment as submitted is the text as drawn and advocated in 1876 by Susan B. Anthony. Legislation in recent years has firmly established for women their independent property rights, and, from the day long before the Boston Tea Party, our people have insisted that where there is taxation there should also be representation.

CARUSO'S SON DOESN'T WANT TO SING; PREFERS TO BE AN ENGINEER

New York, Sept. 4—"Ow do I like America? I've only glimpsed Broadway and Fifth avenue and the Knickerbocker and Plaza Hotels. I haven't ad time to see much else. But I am sure I shall like Americans, though I cawn't abide your American President. His attitude in the Fiume controversy has angered all of Italy."

Not an English statesman speaking, nor even an Italian diplomat, but Enrico Caruso, Jr., fifteen years of age, come September 7, who arrived here with his father, the world renowned tenor and his step-mother, who is a daughter of Park Benjamin, on the steamship Giuseppe Verdi.

Incidentally, it became known there is shortly to be a most interesting event in the Caruso family—in December, to be exact. Mr. and Mrs. Caruso have decided the event shall take place in the Knickerbocker Hotel. A physician is now in almost constant attendances on Mrs. Caruso.

Caruso brought his son Enrico to America for the first time. His plan is to finish the lad's education here. The young fellow has been in London ever since he was three years old, making trips to his home in Florence each Summer. He has had private tuition, and speaks with a distinct English accent, talking frequently into cockney.

Enrico, Jr., is a handsome lad, stalwart, upstanding, broad-shouldered, with splendid facial features, a straight nose very unlike his father's, brown eyes, a mop of black hair and, of course, a swarthy complexion. He wore a natty suit and hat of Gabardine and looked as English as his accent. He said:

"When the attitude of your President became known in Italy the people came in crowds to the Y huts and shouted, 'Long live America and Americans and down with Wilson.' And that's what I say. I was and still am a member of the Y. M. C. A. of the A. E. F. Here's my badge."

"But how about your voice?" was asked. "Are you going to be a tenor like your father?"

"Oh, bother singing," was the reply. "I cannot sing. I couldn't be a tenor, anyhow. My voice is a dark shade. If I were going to sing at all I might be a baritone or bass, but not a tenor. But I don't want to sing. I want to be an engineer.

"My grandfather was an inventor. He invented something—whatever it was—that made a fortune for his employers and nothing for himself. I propose to be an inventor."

"But aren't you fond of music?"

"Oh, I like to hear it—to listen to it. I can tell good music from bad—I know when a singer goes e-e-e, when he strikes what you Americans call a blue note. I can tell that right-o enough. No, dismiss singing from your mind when considering me. I'm not a bit like my father. My brother, Rudolph, is more like him."

Rudolph, it developed, is in the Italian army, where he has been serving since 1917.

ACCUSE INTERPRETER OF STEALING $1,020

New Bedford, Sept. 4—The exodus of Portuguese from New Bedford to their native shores provided Antone R. Martins, an interpreter, with an opportunity for a little flier in the fine art of interpreting their money to his own use, policemen said, when he was arraigned before the District Court charged with larceny.

Antone Roderigues complains that he intrusted Martins with $1,020 in currency, with instructions to have the money converted into Portuguese gold, that he might carry it with him when he should return to the "old country." He says Martins had a different excuse to offer for not producing the gold every time he demanded it.

Martins pleaded not guilty and waived examination.

WARNS BABSON CONFERENCE OF COMBINES

Dudley R. Kennedy Says Selfish Interests Too Often Sway Industry

At the sixth Babson Labor Conference, held at Wellesley Hills, Dudley R. Kennedy today gave an address on "The Present Aspects of Industrial Relations." Today was the second of a three-day session.

Roger W. Babson presided. Mr. Kennedy said, in part:

"The war, with its consequent high cost of living, stoppage of industry, fine interruption of normal production and business procedure, together with the equally consequent flood of new ideas—or rather old ideas appearing in new language and championed by a host of new, often self-proclaiming leaders—has, naturally, inevitably and to some degree dangerously brought the problems of industrial relations to the forefront of all world problems.

"If we can stop long enough to look where we are going, we find that the problem is the same time-honored one that has always been with us, made up of the same component factors and with little if any new knowledge to help toward its solution.

"Labor, as such, there has been too much heat and too little light. Under any 'isms' or social system we must still produce, we must still work together in different capacities and with different rank and varying compensation. It is true that we control such laws as that of supply and demand, but too often, and particularly now, we are controlling it by organization, not for general social advancement but for selfish group interest.

"We must still pay wages and they must still be fair compensation for effort and service rendered. We must still improve our methods and train our workers that our production may increase and our citizens gain in comfort. We must still strive honestly and patiently to work out a better system of production and distribution of economic wealth. We must again take heed that social justice is a stern thing that must not be swayed by popular passion nor by the unlawful use of economic might fostered by collusion or organization."

AUTO AND ITS DRIVER GO THROUGH ROADBED

The famous sunken road at Waterton has nothing on Elm street, Waltham. W. Webster of Waban was driving his auto through Elm street in the rain when the roadbed gave way and he, Webster and his machine went down four feet in the mud. It took the water department to rescue Webster and his machine. A broken water main added to the havoc which the heavy rains had wrought on the roadbed.

Send the kiddies back to school in Filene better values

WE HAVE before us a little girl's dress. It is made of good, sturdy, fine looking gingham. It has a pretty poplin collar.

We have examined all the seams, the deep hems, the stitching, and the STYLE. It is a dress good enough to make the joy of the household go back to school as well dressed as any in her class.

Its cost is but one dollar and sixty-five cents. It is a Filene better value. And it is only one out of two thousand or more similarly good dresses for girls going back to school.

We have before us a boy's suit.

It is a fine looking all wool suit. It would wear like iron even if there wasn't something hidden in it that gave it BETTER value.

Every mother knows what a boy can do to clothes. She knows what happens to the pockets, the seat, the knees, the elbows.

This suit has LEATHER inside the suit where the wear comes. It is boy-proof. The leather is a better value feature IN ADDITION to its other good points!

And so it goes. A whole floor of this store for girls and misses—half a floor for boys—half a floor for children—all full of FILENE BETTER VALUES!

WOMEN'S NEW SUITS

Never were the new suits so lovely—thanks to rich furs made in 1-point and blocked collars

$85 $80 $145 $275 $250

THE 1-POINT collar, as you can see in the centre picture, is a new shape, pointed in front, buttoned over on one side.

THE BLOCKED fur scarf is a narrow shape like the animal—as natured, so to speak. See sketch 1 below.

THE longer coat, the shorter skirt may be called the general policies of the fall suit fashions. Choose from ripple or straight coat, fur or cloth collars, and colors from navy blue to Pompeian red. Four Filene suits out of five fit without important alterations. A good price range, $45 to $375.

Sketch 1—Blocked mink collars on these women's suits of velours de laine at $85.

Sketch 2—Women's tucked suits of velours de laine; coats, nutria collars, $80.

Sketch 3—Women's velours de laine suits, with 1-point nutria collars and a good deal of nutria around the bottom, $145.

Sketch 4—Rust-color suit of silk duvetyne, embroidered with worsted and silk, and trimmed with gray squirrel, $275.

Sketch 5—Ripple suit of Pompeian duvet superior, accentuated with Australian opossum, $250.

Women's high brown boots $8.25

Good leather, strong soles, sensible heels—and lithe, fashionable lines—a combination hard to beat. The favorite cordovan brown—and we have plenty of them, $8.25.

A more dressy shoe shows a cordovan colored leather vamp and a near suede top. Unless one examines the boot it is hard to tell near suede from the real—and it is easier to keep the former cleaned—then, too, it costs a couple of dollars less than the suede top. These shoes have French heels—more fashionable than ever this Fall, $11.50.

Heavy calfskin boots with high Cuban heels—$11.50.

(Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor)

$7.50

Women's tailored white satin blouses $7.50

Most women look well in the tailored blouse—there's something universally becoming about the severely smart lines. Take a gleaming white satin blouse and ruffle it with tiny Tom Thumb frills and you have a creation that looks well with the new Fall suit.

No matter how simple or elaborate the latter may be, by the way, satin is the most satisfactory thing to launder. Its lustre remains long after it begins to be threadbare.

(Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor)

30 styles of envelope chemises $3

Is your favorite envelope chemise tailored? Embroidered? Fluffy with lace—or what? The undermuslin shop has 30 different types, including all these, from which to choose your favorites. Dainty crepes de Chine for most part, or dustrous satins—pretty enough for a trousseau. And a good looking chemise at $3 is a good buy today.

Paris has set the sign and seal of approval on voile for Fall underthings—it's so silky looking and inexpensive. For instance, a lace trimmed envelope chemise with satin shoulder straps is only $4.15. At $1.25 one finds soft pink and white nainsook envelopes and bloomers, all showing the vivid new jewel embroidery.

TO OPERATE HOTEL AS H. C. L. EXPERIMENT

Lawrence, Sept. 4.—Dennis E. Callahan, principal of the Tarbox Grammar School and the Evening High School of this city, has purchased the well-known "Carl Smith" property at Old Orchard Beach, Me. The property is near the pier on the water front, and is considered one of the most desirable locations on the coast.

During the Summer Mr. Callahan has purchased five houses at the beach which he has converted into lodging houses. The school man contemplates the erection of a large hotel on the site he recently purchased, and it is said he will experiment on problems relating to the high cost of living.

THE DEAF HEAR

Deaf thirty years; straining to catch sounds that should be heard readily without effort.

Thirty years of an infernal din of noises in the head.

Thirty years of expenditures of money, effort and time in unavailing endeavor to get rid of the noises and have the hearing restored.

The happiness of success achieved at last.

That is what this simple statement of Sergt. Potter means. Don't you think it required courage worthy of an American soldier to fight the battle with deafness so many years? Don't you think he deserves the comfort that his restored hearing and relief from head noises bring him?

"I was deaf for about 30 years, could get hear with my right ear at all. Had awful ringing and buzzing sounds all the time and suffered from catarrh. I tried several treatments but received no benefit from any of them. Now I am happy to say through the Osmo-Chemic System of Medicine my hearing is fully restored. I advise anyone who is troubled with catarrhal deafness or chronic troubles to consult them without delay."—Sergt. H. E. Potter, Sergt. U. A. C., Fort Banks, Mass.

"I suffered something awful for years with eczema, mostly on my hands. It came out in little blisters, and my hands were very much swollen. They pained me terribly when I put them in water, and I lost lots of rest at night. The last year the fingers were so bad that they were a perfect scale.

"I thought I would try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After I had used three cakes of Soap and two small boxes of Ointment my hands were healed." (Signed) Miss H. Tobin, Box 168, Gorham, Maine, Jan. 4, 1919.

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fluffy, free, looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt, and dandruff.—Advertisement.

Safe Home Treatment for Objectionable Hairs

Boudoir Secrets)

The electric needle is not required for the removal of hair or face, for with the use of plain delatone the most stubborn growth can be quickly banished. A paste is made with water and a little of the powder, then spread over the hairy surface. In about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple treatment not only removes the hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone—Advertisement.

POLICE CRISIS DELAYED BY CURTIS

stepping stone to trouble which some believe might otherwise be averted.

The union officers conferred after the meeting with Commissioner Curtis today. Then like real labor leaders they adjourned to the Quincy House for luncheon. Some were in uniform and others were in their civilian clothes.

Messrs. Vahey and Feeney conferred with Commissioner Curtis after the session. Then they were in conference with Herbert Parker, their meeting ending at 1:15, when Mr. Feeney remarked that he would devote the remainder of the day to golf.

Mayor Andrew J. Peters today prevented immediate action in the police crisis. He appealed to Commissioner Curtis to delay announcing his findings in the cases of the men tried for joining the union.

The commissioner agreed to postpone his announcement until next Monday morning at 9:15. Mr. Curtis came to Boston from his Summer home at Hull today prepared to announce his findings.

Rumor had it that they were positive and that the sentence to be imposed were of a drastic nature. Several of the eight principal officers of the union were at hand to receive the finding. Patrolman Austin of Hanover street was about. Messrs. Feeney and Vahey, counsel for the men, were also in attendance.

Then came the Mayor and a letter in which he begged the commissioner to wait just a few days longer that the differences between the members of James J. Storrow's committee and the officers of the union might be continued and possibly a solution arrived at. The letter intimated that a solution was a possibility.

Commissioner Curtis read the letter to the accused officers and their counsel. He asked them if there was any objection on their part to a delay. Both attorneys asserted there was none, and as a result the hearing was adjourned until Monday morning.

The commissioner made the following statement:

GIVES OUT MAYOR'S LETTER.

"Having received the following letter from His Honor the Mayor, and having read the same to the attorneys for the defendants and they making no objection, my findings will be postponed until Monday next at 9:15 a.m.

"City of Boston,
"Office of the Mayor,
"Sept. 4, 1919.

"Hon. Edwin U. Curtis, Police Commissioner:

"Dear Sir—I have been watching with keen interest the conferences which have been taking place between the committee appointed by me a short time ago and the members of the Boston police force, looking to a solution of the problem presented by the affiliation of the police force with the American Federation of Labor, and impressed with the possibility of a solution to be found honorable and satisfactory to the men and constituted authority, a solution which must be observed in an orderly administration of the police force.

"With the fullest appreciation of the high responsibility that rests upon you, I must also have in mind the safety and security of the people. Of the importance to the public of having this question settled satisfactorily there can be no doubt. To postpone action for a few days only until the developments of the pending conferences may be seen.

"If they succeed in solving the problem without requiring you to reach a final decision, friendly discussion will have achieved a result satisfactory to all concerned. "Very truly yours, (Signed) "ANDREW J. PETERS,
"Mayor."

Mr. Curtis declined to discuss the case at any greater length. The officers and their counsel had been in his office for more than an hour when suddenly the doors opened and all filed out. The men declined to discuss what had happened, referring all questions to counsel.

Mr. Curtis with his secretary Mr. Devlin and Superintendent Crowley, met the press and handed out typewritten copies of the statement. The incident was then closed, so far as the present is concerned.

CURTIS QUIETLY PREPARED.

Quietly and most effectively Commissioner Curtis has been preparing his forces for an eventuality. He decided yesterday that the finding would be issued today. As a result of that determination 150 of the members of the volunteer police force were summoned to the Irvington Street Armory.

There they were met by Captain Patrick King, the departmental drill master. He addressed them on the duties of a police officer, their rights to use force and when to use it. In fact, they were given the same lecture that is given all men regularly appointed to the department.

Other orders had been prepared and all was in readiness. The commissioner had reached his decision following numerous conferences with one of the leaders of the Massachusetts bar. Mayor Peters was apprised of the determination of Mr. Curtis to act.

He conferred with members of his committee and when it was fully appreciated that Boston was confronted with a serious situation he wrote the letter which resulted in the temporary truce.

Attorneys Feeney and Vahey were ready for a court battle, by means of which they hoped to overcome the commissioner's position. They are insistent that the rule which Commissioner Curtis wrote into the manual and for violations of which the men are being tried is unconstitutional.

REPORT OLE HANSON AFTER PRESIDENCY

Washington, Sept. 4.—According to reports, Ole Hanson, foe of the I. W. W. and other apostles of unrest, is stirring things up politically in the Northwest once more.

Hanson's resignation as mayor of Seattle is regarded by many as the first step toward announcement of his candidacy for the Presidency. Republicanism in the Northwest are for Ole to a man.

Prince of Wales Is Suffering From a New "Grip"

By International News Service.

Algoma, Ont., Sept. 4.—The Prince of Wales is suffering from the Canadian "grip," not the old-fashioned kind that sends people to bed with hot water bottles and a vacant feeling, but the kind that comes from gripping too strongly the thousands of Canadian hands that have been extended to welcome him to the Dominion.

So sore is the royal heir's right hand that he is now using his left in greeting until his right can recover. After the prince's visit at Toronto, the pressure of handshake had to bind up the Prince's hand with liniment.

MAYOR TO SEE GIRLS' RACE IN BASIN

Mayor Peters, with other members of the city government, will be among the spectators who will witness the swimming race for the girls' amateur championship of New England in the Charles River Basin Saturday afternoon.

"The Boston American deserves high praise for promoting water sports," the Mayor said today, in announcing that he would attend the race. "The annual carnivals have done much to popularize a healthful and attractive form of sport and I am glad to see this fact attested by the large number of entries for this year's race.

PETERS BOOMS SPORT.

"No city need worry for the future of its youth when they manifest as great an interest in wholesome and health-giving sport. I intend to do everything in my power to induce the citizens of Boston to take advantage of the opportunities the city offers for indulging in water sports."

Aside from the swimming event there will be other aquatic sports participated in by some of the best athletes in New England, including the life-saving corps from Revere Beach (headed by the "Red Mafiti") Flaherty and a number of young women who will perform diving stunts.

There is room for 150,000 persons conveniently near the race and sports, which are free. The Boston Esplanade and Harvard Bridge afford vantage points from which everything that goes on can be seen and it is hoped that everybody who can will get there as early as possible Saturday afternoon. There will be fun and amusement for all. It will mark the closing of the Summer season in water sports in these parts, for the members of the New England Amateur Athletic Association have also arranged to stage their water carnival in the Basin.

SANCTIONED BY A. A. A.

The organization has sanctioned the Boston American race and the judges and other officials declare it will be a banner event. The alluded champion girl swimmer of New England, Miss Wall, will be given a handsome prize and the next four winners will also receive suitable gifts. All others who finish will get an engraved certificate. There are 237 entries for the race.

BIG DIRIGIBLES TO CARRY 150 PLANNED

Liverpool, Sept. 4.—The Great Northern Aerial Syndicate has been organized here with the view to inaugurating an epoch-making passenger service next May. The larger airships will carry 150 passengers each. There will be a first class at the top and a second class at the bottom.

Branch or "feeder" routes will be served by smaller ships carrying fifty passengers each. The first route will include Liverpool, York, Hull, Copenhagen, Stockholm, Petrograd, Tomsk, Pekin, San Francisco, New York, Queenstown and Dublin. The second route will include Liverpool, London, Paris, Cairo, Colombo, Perth and Melbourne, while the stations to be touched on the third route will be Liverpool, Cardiff, Lisbon, Sierra Leone, Capetown and Buenos Ayres.

Six of the largest airships necessary for this service will cost $2,500,000 each.

Landing grounds constitute an important item in the scheme. Huge aerodromes are required at the principal points, with mooring points elsewhere in the shape of a 150-foot tower enclosing a shaft by which cargoes and passengers will be taken off and landed. Each tower is to have a huge hauling winch by which the airships may be supplied with fuel, etc.

A capital of more than $12,000,000 is involved in the enterprise.

SEARCH LUNCH BASKETS FOR NEW HAVEN LOOT

Providence, Sept. 4. — New Haven railway police officials say workmen are "carrying away the road in their dinner baskets," which are carefully scrutinized each day in an effort to save the road from what they believe to be concerted thieving.

Thomas McDonald of Fall River and Ray F. Nelson of this city were placed under arrest charged with conveying property of the road to their home. Other arrests, they say, will follow.

GIRLS! USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try it! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freckled skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands and see how quickly the freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.—Advertisement.

TAX INCREASE SENDS RENTS UP AGAIN

As a result of the increase of $2.40 in Boston's tax rate, rents are taking another jump. A Dorchester resident in the Fields Corner district was informed today by his landlord that his rent for next month would be $28 instead of $24. This is the second increase to which this tenant has submitted within a year. Less than a year ago he was paying only $21.

A Roxbury resident received a notice from the landlord that "on account of the increased cost of coal, taxes and repairs" the rent will be raised $5 a month. With an increase of $2.50 a year ago, this makes a total increase of $7.50. The tenant adds, in a letter to the American, that there is no coal in the cellar, and that very little repairing has been done.

WIFE OR CHILDREN? WAS TANNER RIGHT?

William F. Tanner of Chicago started with his wife to the movies. Crossing a railroad track Mrs. Tanner caught her foot in the rails. Efforts of herself, her husband and a flagman failed to free it. An express was thundering toward them. Finding that he could not save his wife, Tanner clasped her in his arms and waited. Both were killed. At home were three children. These children are now orphaned.

Did Tanner do right?

What is the man's duty in such a case? Does he owe his first thought to his wife or to his children? Should he die with the former, or live for the latter?

It is like the old story of the man who was out in a boat with his wife and child when the boat capsized. He could save only one. Which one ought he to save?

The Chicago man was unable to save his wife, but was able by his self-sacrifice to comfort her last moments to lessen some of the terror of death.

On the other hand, had he leaped to safety he would have been spared to provide for his helpless little family. Which was his duty?

What do American readers think? What would you do, male readers, in a similar case. Women readers, what would you have your husband do if you were in the position of Mrs. Tanner?

QUEEN'S NIECE IS BRIDE OF COMMONER

London, Sept. 4. — All London is agog today with gossip and chatter about the marriage of the second feminine member of the royal family to a commoner, celebrated in almost regal splendor, at Windsor Castle, when Lady Helena Cambridge, Queen Mary's niece, became the bride of Major Evelyn Gibbs, of the Coldstream Guards.

The first marriage of this kind to excite Britain was that of Princess Patricia (Patricia of Connaught) to Commander Ramsay.

At the bride's suggestion, the King and Queen remained on their holiday at Balmoral Castle, Scotland, but their resignation to the new order of affairs is attested to by a message they sent to Lady Helena, which reads:

"We hope everything will go off well. Our thoughts are with you all. (signed) "GEORGE AND MARY."

CARSON REPEATS HIS 'HANDS OFF' WARNING

Declares England Will Brook No Interference From America

By Universal Service.
Special Cable Dispatch.

Dublin, Sept. 4.—It is reported here that Sir Edward Carson will shortly go to America to carry on propaganda work there. Such work has been suggested by Viscount Middleton to combat the pro-Sinn Fein sentiment in the United States.

By Universal Service.
(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Belfast, Sept. 3.—"Let the world know this, that whether you agitate in America, or on the Continent, or anywhere else, England will brook no interference!"

With this blast Sir Edward Carson, chieftain of Ulster, reopened his fight against the home rule plan here. It was in emphatic repetition of his speech of July 12, when he warned America to "mind her own business" and not to interfere with the Irish question.

"I am astounded," said Sir Edward, "at the ignorance in Britain and the United States regarding Ulster. Ulster only wants to be treated like England.

"If Ulster must fight, it won't be against the King."

WELCOME BRITISH TROOPS.

The speaker welcomed British soldiers to Ulster, saying that "the more there, the more our problems will be understood; we are not raising an army to fight British soldiers."

While Carson was urging the Ulsterites to resume their pro-war, anti-home rule organizations which threatened revolution early in 1914, another thousand troops were disembarked in Ireland and hurried to the northern countries where, it is said, 20,000 are to be mobilized. Carson said further in his speech:

"Ulsterites so value their British citizenship that they are prepared to fight for it. Anybody who says Ulster does not want a settlement of the Irish question is stating a ridiculous falsehood. But it must be a settlement, not a surrender.

WANTS PLAIN STATEMENT.

"Let the government make up its mind once and for all, and give us a clear declaration if it has anything in its mind bordering on Sinn Fein. If not, let it announce it boldly, courageously and determinedly.

"If the Catholic hierarchy chanced to put their feet down, disregarding the act of Parliament regarding the country's defence, do they think the Ulsterites would trust them when they promised them civil and religious liberty?

"Your statesmen made a great mistake in thinking it wrong to refer to religious difficulty. There is no use in shutting their eyes to the fact that the demand for separation from England came from a Roman Catholic community, not from a Protestant community. Why, I have no time to inquire.

"But I say it now boldly and brutally because I know that English statesmen are trying to bring about a settlement. You in Ulster must be prepared. You dissolved your organizations when the war commenced. Set to now, in all districts and revive them again. When it becomes necessary I want an expansion of the Orange order."

Sir Edward appealed to Ulsterites to unite behind him in the judgment of the Irish bill Lloyd George and the government will propose this autumn.

"If I can rely upon a united imperial provinces behind me I can promise that in the future as in the past I'll do my best," said he.

NEWTON TO PROTEST HIGHER TROLLEY FARE

Residents of Newton today were planning a protest meeting on the new fare schedule of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway, which takes effect September 20, when the fare will be raised to ten cents on all lines with an additional charge of two cents for transfers. This will make the fare between Riverside and Newtonville on the electrics more than twice as much as it is on the Boston & Albany, it is claimed. A twenty-five-ride railroad ticket costs $1.25 between these two points, making the individual fare less than six cents. The present fare on the railway is seven cents with a charge of three cents for transfers, except the Watertown-Needham line, where ten cents is charged.

FILM STAR IS APPEARING IN DUAL ROLE

"Clothes do not make the man," but they do have something to do with the making of a woman. The dressing was not the only thing that Dorothy Phillips had to consider when she undertook to portray two roles in "The Right to Happiness," the thrilling screen drama now on view at the Majestic Theatre.

While the two parts, both played by Miss Phillips, are supposed to be twin sisters, the author in writing this screen story designed them to be as far apart as the poles.

One sister, Vivian, had been raised in the lap of luxury, with servants to wait upon her every wish, with no necessity of a thought of anything but the satisfying of her own slightest whim; while the other, from whom she had been separated in childhood, had lived in the direst poverty in autocratic Russia.

Under such conditions, the twin sisters coming into the fullbloom of womanhood could not but be dissimilar in character, appearance and thought.

Dorothea, the lost sister, had become a revolutionist as had so many women in Russia, and when the great crisis came in that unhappy country was one of the most fiery of their leaders.

In "making up" for these two girls Miss Phillips was obliged to take all these things into consideration, and it was undoubtedly a difficult task. Had they been of different ages, it might not have been so hard, but it will be remembered that they were twins. How well she accomplished the task can be seen in these two pictures, the one as Vivian, the pampered child of wealth, and the other as Dorothea, known as Sonia, a daughter of the Revolution.

$1,164,779 ESTATE LEFT BY WOOL MAN

Edward R. Carleton, a wool merchant with a place of business on Atlantic avenue, left an estate estimated at $1,164,779, of which only $4,636 is in real estate. Mr. Carleton owned Liberty Bonds to the amount of $130,429.20. He had a balance to his credit with the firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co. of $257,406.51.

He made his home at the Hotel Somerset.

EMPTY GINGER BOTTLES UNDER DEAD MAN'S BED

A man believed to be Cornelius W. Driscoll of No. 372 Hanover street, Boston, was found dead in bed in a room in an apartment of William Barry at No. 591 Broadway, Chelsea.

He went to the house Tuesday evening with Marion Carney of No. 330 Shawmut avenue, Boston. She told the police that she had known the man for about two weeks as Jack Sullivan. In his pocket was found a draft registration card which bore the name of Driscoll and the Hanover street address.

GRACE CAMERON SUES FOR DIVORCE

Former Star of Bostonians Says Husband Knew She Had No Right to Wed

By Universal Service.

New York, Sept. 4.—Grace Cameron, former prima donna of the Bostonians, who later made a hit in vaudeville singing "Little Dolly Dimples," has filed suit in the Supreme Court for annulment of her marriage to Lon C. Connor, broker, of this city.

Miss Cameron avers that at the time of the marriage in Minnesota on December 3, 1914, Connor knew, but she did not, that she had no legal right to re-marry, having obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from Horace Kenworthy in California, on May 21 of the same year. The decree was not made final until six months after her marriage to Connor. She states, however, that she had been informed by the clerk of the Superior Court in California just before her marriage to Connor, that the decree had been made final.

Fashion Has Conceived A New Way

For Milady to Carry Her Bag

That is—if it is a very lovely Parisian Beaded Bag.

Two circlets—they're too large to be called bracelets and they're too small to be called hoops—slip on the arm and the handsomely beaded "handles" make a striking touch of color.

These new Bags with the round handles are the last word from the French designers and the exquisite colorings and unusual patterns appeal to the woman who seeks the distinctive in her accessories.

A charming novelty in an all-over beaded bag is a Miser effect (illustrated centre) with its two sections, which are particularly roomy—and especially handsome.

How to Reduce the Cost of Living

Establish Co-operative Stores

(From the report on "Social Reconstruction: A General Review of the Problems and Survey of Remedies" issued by the National Catholic War Council)

"During the war the cost of living has risen at least seventy-five per cent. above the level of 1913. Some check has been placed upon the upward trend by government fixing of prices in the case of bread and coal and a few other commodities. Even if we believe it desirable, we cannot ask that the government continue this action after the articles of peace have been signed; for neither public opinion nor Congress is ready for such a revolutionary policy.

The Toll of the Middleman

More important and more effective than any government regulation of prices would be the establishment of co-operative stores. The enormous toll taken from industry by the various classes of middlemen is now fully realized. The astonishing difference between the price received by the producer and that paid by the consumer has become a scandal to our industrial system.

The obvious and direct means of reducing this discrepancy and abolishing unnecessary middlemen is the operation of retail and wholesale mercantile concerns under the ownership and management of the consumers.

This is no Utopian scheme. It has been successfully carried out in England and Scotland through the Rochdale system.

Americans Adapted for Co-operation

Very few serious efforts of this kind have been made in this country because our people have not felt the need of these co-operative enterprises as keenly as the European working classes, and because we have been too impatient and too individualistic to make the necessary sacrifices and to be content with moderate benefits and gradual progress. Nevertheless, our superior energy, initiative and commercial capacity will enable us, once we set about the task earnestly, even to surpass what has been done in England and Scotland...

When the working classes have learned to make the sacrifices, and to exercise the patience required by the ownership and operation of co-operative stores, they will be equipped to undertake a great variety of tasks and projects which benefit the community immediately, and all its constituent members ultimately."

Copies of the complete Reconstruction Program issued by the Committee on Special War Activities, National Catholic War Council, 1312 Massachusetts Avenue, Washington, D. C., will be supplied free on application.

MAKES GERMANY STOP 'MASS' EXECUTIONS

Col. Goodyear, Hoover's Agent, Interferes on Behalf of Poles in Upper Silesia

By Universal Service.
(Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, Sept. 4.—Colonel Goodyear, Herbert C. Hoover's representative, has compelled the German government to issue an order at Berlin forbidding further "mass" executions, after a vigorous demand to this effect over the telephone, the Morning Post learns from its correspondent in Upper Silesia.

At the same time, according to the dispatch, the German State Commissary, Hoersing, with whom Colonel Goodyear is at loggerheads, was promulgating a new decree, that the contents of houses of workingmen who fled during the insurrection and did not return, should be thrown out of the houses for seizure by anybody that desired them.

The German military authorities, the correspondent adds, are commencing to enforce an earlier decree making all idle workingmen liable to imprisonment. The harvests in upper Silesia are rotting in the fields.

The Germans are said to be conducting severe repressive measures aimed at the Polish population of upper Silesia, which is in terror.

NAVY CRITICISM STIRS BRITISH SEA LORDS

'Sack Whole Spendthrift Crew,' Is Recommendation of Admiral Fisher

By Universal Service.
(Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, Sept. 4.—The attack on the British naval administration by Admiral Lord Fisher, in which he stated that half the British navy should be scrapped because it is obsolete, and that the other half will soon be equally useless, and in which the former Admiralty chief advised the government to "sack the whole spendthrift crew," has shocked England from one end to the other.

Also, it has aroused a great storm of political and expert controversy which, in view of the disarmament proposal under the League of Nations, is as interesting to America as it is to Britain.

Admiral Sir Percy Scott, who invented the fire control system which enabled Beatty to win the Jutland battle, and who is credited with being responsible for the efficiency of British submarines, takes Lord Fisher sharply to task.

Scott declares that it is far from the truth that the navy is obsolete because the future ships will have "extraordinarily clean and internal combustion engines." He adds: "The day of $40,000,000 battleships is over. Great sums spent on one ship that can be easily sunk might be put to far more effective use in other ways."

Admiral Scott believes that the air service as a "striking force" has far-reaching capabilities and asserts he is investigating to learn the full extent to which it can be used.

Commander Carlyon Bellairs, the keenest naval critic in Parliament, says, in reply to Lord Fisher's attack:

"It is curious that a good deal of the needless expenditure now in question by the navy originated in Lord Fisher's policies. The North Sea outlook is finished and the whole base which led to increasing armaments is finished with it. The immediate thing is to have a thoroughly efficient war staff to train officers in economy as well as efficiency. At present officers are enemies of economy and the government made them so."

Admiral Sir Cyrian Bridge says: "If Lord Fisher's letter has any meaning at all it means a reversion to naval expenditure in vogue previous to the war is absolutely necessitated the fire control system which

WOMEN'S POST OF LEGION OPENED

Mrs. Daisy Erd in Charge of Activities in Behalf of Ex-Service Workers

The headquarters of the New England Women's Post of the American Legion opened today at room 432, Little Building, with Mrs. Daisy Erd, formerly chief yeoman (F) of the First Naval District, in charge.

The post, which is numbered 29, already has a membership of 75. Business men throughout the city have written to Mrs. Erd offering rooms and to assist the post in every possible manner in the organization. Permanent rooms are now under way for the banner which will be held in Commonwealth Armory, October 6-8.

Mrs. Erd is looking for special work for ex-service girls.

"Everything will be done to look after the young women who have been honorably discharged from war service and are seeking new positions. You would be surprised how many women who have done efficient war work have found themselves out of a position for some time. This organization will be the means of exchanging information with business men and supplying what they want as helpers."

WET FIELD PLEASES FISHER

Backfield Candidates Are Put Through Stiff Signal Drill

The muddy field was thrice welcome to Head Coach Bob Fisher of the Harvard football team, who had the backfield candidates out practicing formations and passing with the slippery ball.

The four backfields were put through a stiff signal practice, with the centre passing the ball, and went through their work with hardly a miscue. The first string quintet was handled by Quarterback Murray, with Phil Philbin playing centre. Murray called on Eddie Casey to carry the ball most of the time, but occasionally shifted to "Swede" Nelson and Stan Burnham.

"Babe" Felton had Ralph Horween in his backfield with Bill Caswell at centre, while Dick Humphrey and Freddy Church were the five men directed by Arthur Conlon.

Two new players have reported, Paul Peters, formerly of Exeter, and George Batchelder, who won his "H" in 1916. Pooch Donovan, however, drew the line at Batchelder playing long in togs until the knee upon which he recently had an operation has become stronger.

JOB FOR DONOVAN.

Donovan has a big job ahead to keep men like Casey, Felton and others reporting at playing weight, from going stale before the big performances are put on.

Jimmie Knox, who knows more about the Princeton plays than the Tiger coaches themselves, is in Cambridge and is expected to scout the Jerseymen again this Fall. Jimmie particularly wants to know if his boss, Rogers Brown, is to be back on the job. The latter is chief Harvard scout, and has much to do with preparing the Harvard defense against the particular plays of each eleven he looks over. Brown hasn't yet divulged his intentions this year.

NEW COACH IS ON HAND.

Derrie Parmenter and Sam Felton were to help the Harvard staff today. The former is going to be in charge of the centres, which at present are comprised of Phil Philbin and Redington Fiske. Felton's forte will be the development of punters, and he has a fruitful field to work in with such kickers as Ralph and Arnold Horween, Freddy Church, Billie Murray and Bob Hunneman.

Several more players have signified their intention of joining the squad. All the men are to be called out next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

JOSEPHS MEETS HAYES AT LYNN CLUB TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY.

Bobby Josephs, sparkling South End featherweight, and Chick Hayes of Indianapolis, will clash in the feature bout of twelve rounds at the Casino A. C. of Lynn tonight. It is the most important contest between little men booked by the Lynn organization.

It will be the third meting between Josephs and Hayes. In the first encounter Josephs won despite the fact his rival entered the ring a betting favorite. The second whirl between these boys ended with honors even.

Josephs and Hayes are both fast, willing workers and should furnish the fans with plenty of action this p. m.

"I didn't realize what a great little fighter Josephs is until I saw the Lynch-Herman bout on Labor Day," said Marty Killilea today. "Lynch outboxed and outfought Herman in almost every round. Josephs, on the other hand, gave the New Yorker a furious battle. If he had used a little better ring generalship, he might have won the decision or at the least got a draw."

K. O. Charley Elkins of the South End and Frank McFarland, who hails from the North End, will clash in the semi-final tussle of eight rounds. Billy Jacques of Beverly will oppose George Lee of Revere in a six round contest, while Joe LaRue will exchange blows with George Crouse of this city in another six round session event.

Statements of famous fighters. No. 1. "I am glad the new champion is an American."—John L. Sullivan.

Frank Carbone of New York and George Robinson, Cambridge middleweight, will clash in the feature bout of twelve rounds at the Commercial Club tomorrow night. These men are old rivals and may be relied upon to put up a spirited engagement. Robinson has been boxing better than during the past six months than he has at any time during his long ring career.

Battling Bagley of Everett and Joe Silva, who calls the West End home, will furnish the thrills in the semi-final frolic of ten rounds. Bagley recently stopped Silva and the latter is out to grab a flock of that stuff the dear old poets call revenge.

Johnny Donovan and Charley Parker are busily preparing themselves for their twelve-round tussle which will be held at Mechanics Building next Tuesday night under the direction of the Armory A. A. This is the best lightweight attraction between New England boxers a club could land. Parker has been a steady winner in his contests with local boys, while Donovan proved in his first meeting with Young Kloby that he is a blue-ribbon performer.

It will take bouts like the one arranged for next Tuesday night to warrant holding shows in Mechanics Building. When the Armory A. A. first secured the building, the rental was $500. The Fenway A. A. then put in a bid for the place. The Triple A opposed the Fenway club being permitted to hold shows in Mechanics Building.

The directors of the building, however, announced that any club which would pay $1,000 rental, furnish $75 worth of police protection and pay $35 for setting up the ring and chairs, making a total outlay of $1,110, might have the use of the building for an evening. This overhead means that a club would soon perish unless it had banner attractions.

Chick West will clash with Oscar Gardner of New York in a twelve-round setto at Clinton tomorrow night. Just now West is out to get a match with Young Kloby. As Gardner has scored a respectable number of victories, he is liable to upset West's plans. The contest has aroused considerable interest among Clinton fans and a large crowd is expected to be on hand to witness the festivities.

TICKER TAPE WORMS.

ABOUT the only two unions that haven't struck this week are the astronomers and penguin hunters.

* * *

THE camel drivers, moonbeam sifters, crokinole players, Morris chair polishers and tobacco coupon savers all struck for thinner work and thicker pay envelopes. Waiters want more velvet for thumbing the soup. There only seems to be two kinds of workmen in this vale of lipsticks and substitutes for booze. Workingmen who can't work and don't and work-ingmen who can work and don't. Poughkeepsie chiropodists have been on a strike for two months and upstate New Yorkers are walking around looking as if their shoes were full of hard boiled cobblestones. Newark barbers walked out leaving their customers more shaved than alive. A Newark shave is an operation for appendicities on the chin.

* * *

EVERYBODY seems to be striking except the suckers in Wall Street. The ticker tape worms don't know enough to strike. They think they can trim a broker at his own game, which is like challenging an owl to a hooting contest. Wall Street is a financial Turkish bath, where they take the fat off a bankroll.

* * *

THEY buzz that the boy is father to the man and they are as right as a sixteen-ounce pound. It's only a step from all-day suckers to all-year round suckers. If it were not for the ticker tape worms the brokers wouldn't have any income taxes to dodge. The sucker is Wall Street's Santa Claus without the reindeer. Some day the suckers may organize and launch a union. But even when the worm turns it's still only a worm.

* * *

WALL Street is a high powered alley that is used by suckers as a short cut from their office to the poorhouse. It is lined with the tallest buildings and the shortest bankrolls in the works. Some of the buildings are fifty stories high. When you get up on the roof and look down at the suckers in the streets, the altitude is so plenty that the sapps in the street look like pinheads. This ain't so high when you realize that they look like pinheads all the time.

* * *

A TICKER tape worm will hock his second wife's first wedding ring in order to snare enough buttons to play the Street. He gets a sure thing tip that is about as permanent as the tip on a penny shoelace. He plays it on margin. Everybody knows what a margin is. It's the space in a directory between the edge of the page and the reading matter. It's a blank. He shoots his money on the margin, which is like shooting blanks. Anybody who picks up a dictionary and reads the margins instead of the words is suffering from a head full of soap bubbles.

Fenway Park Ring Show Is Balked by Police

As a result of the threat of the police to stop the show, the Carylo S. and A. C. has called off the bouts it had scheduled for Fenway Park Saturday afternoon. The police authorities refuse to permit outdoor boxing in this city.

When the directors of the Carylo club announced they were going to hold tussles in Fenway Park there was a protest by the regiment or more of promoters who planned similar ventures until warned not to do so by the powers that be up Pemberton square way.

The Carylo club declared the police would not interfere with their card, but were later informed that an outdoor ring program would not be permitted.

The card announced for the outdoor card was one of the best ever arranged for this city, but it went a-glimmering under the fusillade of night sticks.

CHARTER OAK RACE SCHEDULED TODAY

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 4.—Three trotting events and one pace race were on the card at Charter Oak Park today. The contest arousing the most interest was the Charter Oak race. The two-year old trot, the 2:06 trot and the 2:04 pace were also to be run. Five races are on tomorrow's list, the 2:09, 2:14, three-year old and team trots and the 2:10 pace.

UNITED HUNTS RACES BILLED FOR SATURDAY

New York, Sept. 4.—Three flat races and the same number over the timbers will be contested at the United Hunts meeting on the Belmont Park track Saturday.

PLAY FOR NEW JERSEY GOLF TITLE UNDER WAY

New York, Sept. 4.—Twenty-six golfers teed off today in the qualifying round for the New Jersey State championship on the Essex County Country Club links. Qualification is to be in flights of eight.

John Smith has been playing second base for the Roxbury Cardinals this season and his work in the field and at the plate has been the feature of all the games. His team plays in the sixteen-year-old class and has won nearly all of their games this season.

MISS ELEONORA SEARS WINS AT HORSE SHOW

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Miss Eleonora Sears of Boston, with Radia, landed the Rochester challenge cup against Walter H. Hanley's Driftwood Blaze at the horse show here.

TENNIS SINGLES TITLE MATCH DUE TODAY

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The singles championship match between William J. Tilden of Philadelphia and William T. Johnston of San Francisco was scheduled to take place today on the courts of the West Side Club.

Both men are in top physical form after their rest of two days and a hard match seemed certain. Tilden was the favorite with most of the followers of the net game, though the sympathy for Johnston had grown. Though the former has already registered a victory over his rival this year and, all along has displayed more consistent form, the Californian has come strongly in the past fortnight and there are now many who believe that he had better than an even chance to dispose of his erstwhile conqueror.

Tilden and Johnston are foremost experts of the smashing and speed games. Tilden slams a tennis ball harder than McLoughlin ever did in his palmiest days, and that is saying much for the wicked drives the Philadelphian uncorks. The latter's service is bullet-like in its speed, and his forehand drives scoot over the net with rifle-shot velocity.

Regardless of the fact that Johnston weighs but 118 pounds, he hits a ball with tremendous power, particularly on his long forward drives, which are remarkably well controlled. However, Johnston's service does not quite come up to that of his opponent of tomorrow, for Tilden's service has more snap than that of anyone on the courts.

AMHERST FOOTBALL TO START ON WEDNESDAY

Amherst, Sept. 4.—The Amherst football candidates will report to Coach Gettell next Tuesday. The schedule: September 2, Bowdoin; October 4, N. H. U.; October 11, Union; October 18, Trinity; October 25, Columbia; November 1, Worcester P. I.; November 8, Wesleyan; November 15, Williams.

BRAVES BEGIN 3-DAY SERIES WITH PHILS

For the funeral of a season

Songs of the Bleachers.

By NICK FLATLEY.

A postcard from that well-known metropolis, Elmira, N. Y., informs us that coach Flattery of the Braves is up that way looking through the raindrops at some bush league stars. Where-fore we can expect to see some new faces at the Braves' ranks in the not far distant future, as Billy Mulling would say.

Outside of that there's no news floating around in the world of baseball, which has been soaked through for the last few days of delays. The Braves, who landed back for a three-day stop with the even lower Phillies, have been in hotel lobbies ever since Monday, having nothing else to do with the actors out on strike.

GO EAST AFTER SERIES.

After assaulting the Cravath crew three times the tribe makes its last excursion into the West and then comes home and pulls down the curtain on a season that the team and the fans and everybody will be very glad to forget.

There has been a little talk about a city series, but not a great deal. The idea hasn't stirred up tremendous enthusiasm, so far as one can observe, which isn't strange considering the evil fortunes that followed the local athletes all year.

We have an idea that Boston's baseball enthusiasm will explode with a loud crash as soon as Babe Ruth shatters the home run record. If the fans stop rushing to the ball yard after the record has gone, you can tell the universe that there'll be no series. If they keep flocking out to watch the long wallops, then it may be something else again.

NOTHING AT STAKE.

Such a series wouldn't go to prove a thing, at that, although many fans would like to see the teams in actual conflict. There would be a couple of good crowds turn out, and the players are all for such a clash, as it would mean a few extra dollars to stack up against the H. C. L.

There is quite a rivalry between the two clubs, however, the same being stirred around by the fact that boxing may be put on at the Fenway orchard while the Braves are playing Saturday afternoon. The Sox tried to get the Braves to permit a double header with the Yanks today, but there was nothing stirring. Both Yanks and Sox have an open date, but the Braves officials decided to go along as per schedule provided it ever stopped raining.

How to Play Baseball

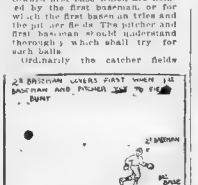
THIS is the eighty-ninth of a series of 100 articles by Hugh S. Fullerton, celebrated baseball expert, on "How to Play Baseball." These articles will be a feature of the American's sport pages each day. Don't miss them.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

To avoid mixups between fielders, an understanding as to which shall make the effort on every play is necessary. Of course, it is impossible to have a previous understanding as to which player shall go after each kind of a hit, because situations continually arise that compel variations. But it is possible for each team to subdivide the ball field into sectors with the understanding that any ball hit in that sector shall be tried for by the fielder presiding over such territory.

It is best that the second baseman cover first base on all bunts toward first base which are fielded by the first baseman, or for which the first baseman tries and the pitcher fields. The pitcher and first baseman should understand thoroughly which shall try for such balls.

Ordinarily the catcher fields



bunts shorter than fifteen feet from the plate toward first, the pitcher takes those rolling in the next thirty feet and the first baseman the rest. He make should not come more than half way to the plate for any bunt, as in doing so he must start with a dead run and take the chances of having the ball chopped past him in all these cases the second baseman should come up fast and cover first base.

He can do so in natural position while the pitcher, if he covers, must turn around to make a relay or take the throw over his shoulder, which is dangerous. The first baseman who rushes forward should drop flat and stay out of the play if he fails to reach the ball, as he is in the road and if he should try to return and cover first base he would have to make the catch in the most awkward possible condition.

In the modern school of left-handed first basemen, too many overdo the art of fielding bunts toward firs. They should rely more upon pitchers to handle such hits and reserve their forward rush to situations when they expect to make the play to second base to force out the runner there. In such plays it is justifiable for first basemen to start, with the pitch, come to within thirty-five feet of the plate and make the throw to second, which a pitcher cannot do without turning entirely around. The second baseman covers first in that play also, leaving short to take the throw at second.

One of the worst misunderstandings is between shortstop and third as to which fielder shall handle slow hit balls rolling straight toward the shortstop's position. The ball should be delegated to the third baseman, who should cut across fast, straight toward the pitcher and make the play which is directly before him. The pitcher should not try at all for such balls, unless they are hit within ten or twelve feet of his position.

This is especially true of left-handed pitchers, who must turn almost twice around to make a throw to first on such a ball. This leaves the shortstop free to play a deep field in safety. Bunts straight down the left field line belong to the third baseman, unless rolling very slowly, so that the catcher can pursue and handle them within twenty feet of the plate. The pitcher, unless exceptionally fast and a quick starter, cannot handle such balls as rapidly as can a third baseman.

HOOPER VITAL TO RED SOX SUCCESS

This is an off day for the Red Sox. Tomorrow they start a three-game series with the Athletics in Philadelphia, the double-header coming Saturday. Monday they are scheduled to visit the Yankees on the Polo Grounds, but it is possible they may secure a transfer of the combat to Fenway Park and with the game scheduled for that day play off one of the two games lost through bad weather in this city.

The home stay proved quite profitable, the Harrow clan winning two from the Senators and breaking even with the Athletics in four games. Of course, except for improvement effected in the percentage figures, these victories do not mean much to the Red Sox. They are in sixth place to stay for the remainder of the season. There is no chance for them to pass the Browns or the Yankees, one of which is the team certain to finish next above the Bostonians, and they hardly can lose enough games to displace the Griffmen from seventh place.

BUST HOLD HOOPER.

Indeed, aside from Babe Ruth's batting, the only thing about the team that is of interest to the fans is the outlook for next season. This is better [illegible] far though far from as rosy as it [illegible] be owing to the uncertainty of Harry Hooper being with the Red Sox [illegible] Hooper is a big item in [illegible] where he intends to spend most of his remaining days and is not especially much interested in baseball.

If Hooper does not come back, the club's problem will be serious. Without the former Brave, who makes a new impressive hitting record with the White Sox team (.301 all right and maybe will hit the American League pitchers even harder than he did those in the National circuit, but is so far from a good defensive ball player and he never showed anything while playing under Stallings or Mgr. Barrow to lead any one to expect he could be developed in this regard.

Ruth is only a fair performer and Ruth is kept in left field because of his power to deliver long hits and for nothing else, though he is a fielder. Gilhooley has shown [illegible] nor exactly the man to found championship team.

INFIELD GOOD.

New material is of course [illegible] Every ball club in the [illegible] several new gardeners along [illegible] southern trip for a try out, but these are all best a gamble with the chances rather against the big club.

So it is clearly up to the Red Sox management to make an offer attractive enough to hold Hooper in line or else to secure a player of proven value already under the big top. The former course would be the preferable.

Harrow can afford to stand pat on his infield. It could be better, but as constituted at present it is better than most inner defences of the major league clubs. His pitchers are good and should improve, while back of the bat he will have to put someone to help out Schang, who has been obliged to do more than his share of work this year.

EBBETS WANTS FINGER IN NEW YORK CITY SERIES PIE

New York, Sept. 4. — "I note with great interest that a city series is being talked of, with the Giants and the Yankees as the participants," says President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club. "Well, I want to protest against such a dual series, for the simple reason that no city title can be decided unless the Superbas are admitted into the competition. If the Giants and the Yankees want to settle the championship of the Polo Grounds or of Manhattan Island, well and good. They can settle it between themselves. But if the affair is billed as a city series they will have to let the Superbas in on it or I will yell blue murder."

A Mystery Story of New York Life

THE GRAY HAIR

With a Deeply Interesting Plot

The Action So Far

John Hastings, multi-millionaire and captain of industry, has employed Robert Allaire, a young lawyer, to do some work for him. Allaire gains admittance to the house and reveals himself as a member of "The Society for the Redistribution of Superfluous Wealth." He threatens Hastings, who attempts to summon aid. The visitor shoots him dead and escapes. Arrested later, Allaire declares he has a perfect alibi, that he was playing cards with friends till three in the morning.

By Arthur Somers Roche

(Whose novels have won for him the title of a master writer of mystery stories)

FINALLY, angered by the sneers of the police, young Allaire began to threaten. He demanded a lawyer; he vowed he'd have the whole department punished for false arrest. And his bearing was so truly that of outraged innocence that the magistrate before whom he was taken at 9 in the morning, and who was expected to remand the prisoner without bail, became doubtful, even though the Hastings servants retracted their identification, and even though the taxicab chauffeur who had spirited the murderer away came forward with evidence to the effect that Allaire was the murderer and had forced him, the chauffeur, at point of a gun, to drive swiftly uptown and deposit the murderer at a subway entrance. The chauffeur had come to police headquarters at 7 in the morning, impelled thereto by conscience and a fear that his car might be traced.

But Allaire's manner in denying the added evidence of the chauffeur impressed Judge Sweeney.

"There might be some mistake, Commissioner," he said to the head of the police department. "We cannot be too careful to protect the reputation and liberty of an honest and innocent man. If his story is true—"

A man entered the courtroom. He was Silvan Smallidge, a lawyer of great repute, who had never appeared in a criminal case. Judge Sweeney was impressed immensely by the presence of this leader of the bar.

"Your Honor! If Your Honor please——"

"Mr. Smallidge," said the judge.

The lawyer drew a long breath.

"Your Honor, to suppose such a man as Robert Allaire would for a few hours, to commit an offense against the fair name of an honorable gentleman that can never be condoned. I have here three witnesses who will testify that Mr. Allaire was with them from 9 o'clock last evening until 3 this morning."

"Where are they?" demanded the judge.

The Art Dealer's Story

Smallidge summoned them from the corridor one by. They marched in, impressive, dignified. They smiled encouragingly upon young Allaire, and that youth leaned back on his bench with hugs relief. Never seriously alarmed, it had been unpleasant facing the batteries of the newspaper cameras and the hoots of the throng that had witnessed his entrance into the courtroom.

"James Phelan!" cried Smallidge.

The police commissioner frowned. Phelan was a well known retired art dealer, and Allaire had mentioned him as one of his witnesses. But the Commissioner had been so certain that his detectives had arrested the guilty man that he had refused to send for Phelan.

Just tell us your story, Mr. Phelan," said Smallidge.

Mr. Phelan cleared his throat impressively.

"Your Honor," he began, "my servant awakened me at seven this morning and showed me the newspaper accounts of the murder of John Hastings and the arrest of my good friend, Robert Allaire." He smiled gravely upon the young lawyer. "My servant did so because he knew Mr. Allaire was an intimate friend of mine. I promptly telephoned Mr. Smallidge to take charge of the defence of Mr. Allaire and, with him, began telephoning the gentlemen who, beside myself, could swear Mr Allaire of this absurd charge. They are here now, and——Smallidge interrupted

"Never mind them, Mr. Phelan, please. Just tell us when and where you saw Mr. Allaire last night."

Mr Phelan cleared his throat again.

"At shortly before seven last night—I am sure of the hour because I had ordered dinner for seven sharp, and we were not delayed, as the chef of the club can testify if necessary. Mr Allaire joined me in the grill of the Maple club, to which we both belong. He was the last member of my dinner party, which consisted, besides Mr. Allaire and myself, of Commodore Lane and Mr. Philip Swinton, to arrive. We were at the table until about eight o'clock. It must have been about that time, for it is a ten-minute taxi ride from the club to the Broadway Theatre, where we arrived just before the curtain arose, and, as the curtain rises at eight-fifteen sharp"——

"Yes, yes, Mr. Phelan," interrupted the lawyer; "you went to the theatre? Then what?"

"After the first act we went outside for a drink," said Mr. Phelan.

"Did Mr. Allaire leave you at that time?"

"He wasn't beyond touch of my hand," said Phelan firmly. "After our high-balls we returned to the theatre. We remained there until the close of the performance, and then taxied to the club, where, in the cardroom, we played auction until after three this morning, as club servants will bear out the testimony of myself and other gentlemen."

"That will do, Mr. Phelan; thank you," said Smallidge. "Mr. Philip Swinton——"

Mistaken Identity

Mr. Swinton was a round, ruddy face, slightly enlarged by the gravity of the situation. It formed a strong contrast to the keen visage of Phelan, testified that he was an architect. He then went on to corroborate in every detail, the testimony of Phelan. There was amazement, mystification, on the face of the police commissioner when Swinton left the stand. But this amazement was deepened by the testimony of Commodore Lane, who had gained his title by gift of a yacht club, and who was well known as a gentleman of leisure and an amateur skipper. In every detail, he, too, corroborated Phelan.

"Your honor," said lawyer Smallidge, "it must be clear to you by now that there is a grave case of mistaken identity before you. I do not doubt the honesty of the Hastings' but they only had had occasion to see Mr Allaire on the two occasions when he had dined at the house, while these witnesses are intimate friends of to prisoner. The servants are mistaken, honestly so, no doubt, but—mistaken! I ask for the discharge of my client, Mr. Robert Allaire."

And while Jenkins, the man servant, struggled with a policeman, the while he cursed Allaire for a thousand-and-one times murderer," Judge Sweeney discharged Allaire. And not even a police commissioner, who had been utterly and absolutely convinced of the guilt of the young lawyer, could find reason to advance against the judge's decision.

It was as clear a case of mistaken identity as had ever come to the attention of the police department.

It was in his mind to hold Jenkins, the whole servants, and the taxi chauffeur. But all the servants had been employed by Hastings for at least fifteen years; they were trustworthy, loyal to the dead financier. Moreover, it was absurd to think that the servants would be in collusion with the chauffeur to save away the life of an innocent man to protect themselves. The chauffeur's employer had come to police headquarters and vouched for the character of the man. He had employed him continuously for eight years, and the chauffeur was honest.

It was impossible that the servants lied. They were too unintelligent to have been able to undergo the cross-examination to which they'd been subjected unless they were telling the truth. Moreover, the Hastings house had been searched from top to bottom, and no revolver had been found there.

And Hastings had been shot with a revolver—no doubt about that. And the murderer had taken the weapon away with him. The servants told the truth; only the truth; hell Mr Phelan and his friends had told the truth. And their truth was the truth. The servants had been deceived by a fiendish resemblance; but Allaire's friends—

At His Wit's End

Puzzled rather realizing that the murderer had now had over twelve hours in which to make his escape, realizing that the man had left not a single clew behind him, and realizing that the newspapers would rave against him for incompetence if he failed to capture the slayer of the foremost financier in the city, the commissioner made a unhappy way to headquarters.

There he did the only thing he could do. He ordered five hundred detectives to search the city for a man who looked like Robert Allaire. He also, though without any hope of results, ordered the Hastings' servants, the chauffeur and the witnesses who had testified for Allaire, and Hastings' butler, that every one of them be arrested on the charge of perjury.

The truth, or what he believed to be the truth, and that Allaire was innocent, the commissioner felt that he had to do something and this was all he could see to do.

Having therefore, given these orders and cursed his detectives until their blood ran cold for a lot of useless, fat-witted nincompoops—the papers would call him many names, and it was a relief to "lay off" some of the epithets on some one else in advance, even as a book-maker too heavily involved in the chances of a single horse "lays off" some of the superfluous bets in other books—Commissioner Blake pushed by the throng of reporters and went to his private office. And there he had a surprise!

Like a Lot of Maniacs

For, trembling, teeth chattering, ashen-faced, Silas Warrener, president of the City Railways; Jonathan Coleman, president of the Sixteenth National Grain and Produce Bank, and Wilson Deswald, chairman of the board of directors of the linen trust, the three men who had stood closest to the late John Hastings, powers of finance all of them, were in the office. They rose at Blake's entrance. Old Warrener found his voice first.

"For God's sake, Mr. Commissioner, protect me, protect me! I am to be killed this evening, and——"

"Protect me!" cried Coleman. "I have three daughters, and——"

"My wife is an invalid!" cried Deswald. "If I am killed——"

The commissioner silenced them with a curse. Ordinarily, he would have been very careful of his speech to those powerful gentlemen, but he was too harassed to think of courtesy now.

"Don't chatter like a lot of maniacs!" he snapped. "What's the matter?"

"Matter!" echoed Coleman. "Matter! The Society for the Redistribution of Surplus Wealth has written me——"

"Society—what?"

"The one that killed Hastings!" said Warrener, quaveringly.

"Killed Hastings? What do you mean?"

Warrener handed him a letter. It read

Silas Warrener

One hour ago John Hastings was killed for refusal to comply with the terms of this society—in other words, for refusing to turn over to this society one-half of his wilfully acquired millions. Tomorrow night you will be killed unless the afternoon papers contain an announcement from you, addressed to this society, to the effect that you will meet our terms. If the morning papers contain an account of the arrest of Hastings' executioner, don't feel easy. The man arrested for the execution will be dis harged at his first hearing.

The society for the Redistribution of Surplus Wealth

The letter was dated the previous evening and postmarked at 10 p. m. Evidently, allowing time for collection, the letter had been posted within an hour after Hastings' murder. And the devils who sent it had known in advance that Allaire would be arrested and discharged! In a dozen Blake read similar notes, identically similar save for the names of the people to whom they were addressed, which the frightened Deswald and Coleman handed him.

The Land of Fear

"Then this society," gasped the commissioner, "has threatened—why didn't you inform the police?"

"We never do," said Warrener. "It gets in the papers and encourages other cranks to threaten us so—but Hastings got letters from them, too. He told us about them. We didn't take any stock in them—we got so many. But we're talking! Wasting time talking! Mr. Commissioner, I demand that you protect me! I——"

Peril Avoided

At a church conference a lay speaker began a tirade against the universities and education, expressing thankfulness that he had never been corrupted by contact with a college. After proceeding for a few minutes a bishop, who was in the chair interrupted with the question, "Do I understand that Mr. Dobson is thankful for his ignorance?" "Well, yes," was the answer, "you can put it that way if you like." "Well, all I have to say," said the prelate in sweet and musical tones, "is that he has much to be thankful for!"

Phoebe's face dimpled with mischief.

Breast of Chicken a la Sherry

Take the breast of a young spring chicken, season with salt, pepper and a little paprika, and fry it slowly in fresh butter for about fifteen minutes. Then add to it some sliced fresh mushrooms, and slices of cooked Virginia ham, let it simmer for a few minutes and finish the whole with a tablespoonful of sherry wine, a drop of Jamaica rum and same quantity of cream whipped to a froth and a glass of thin rich cream sauce. Serve on toasted bread with a sprinkle of chopped parsley over all.

Imitations Are Dangerous.

AN OHIO druggist writes to "The Practical Druggist," a prominent New York Drug Journal, as follows: "Please furnish formula for Castoria. All the formulas I have worked with are either ineffective or disagreeable to administer."

To this "The Practical Druggist" replies: "We do not supply formulas for proprietary articles. We couldn't if we wanted to. Your experience with imitative formulas is not surprising, but just what is to be expected. When Castoria is wanted, why not supply the genuine? If you make a substitute, it is not fair or right to label it Castoria. We can give you all sorts of laxative preparations for children, but not Castoria, and we think a mother who asks for Castoria would not feel kindly toward you if you gave her your own product under such a name."

No mother with a spark of affection for her child will overlook the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher when buying Castoria.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Mothers Must Use Care.

Why do we so often call your attention to imitations of Fletcher's Castoria? Because it is a baby's medicine and imitations are always dangerous, particularly imitations of a remedy for infants.

Your druggist may not keep an imitation but they are to be found on drug-store shelves. Reliable druggists think only of the welfare of their customers. The other kind only of the greater profit to be made on imitations.

Your own judgment tells you that Fletcher's Castoria having for over thirty years at great expense held up its reputation, must jealously guard it. Then, it follows that this company must use the very best of material. Must employ experts in the selection of the herbs. Must retain skilled chemists in its manufacture.

Your same good judgment must tell you that these irresponsible imitators are trading on your credulity and the reputation built up by Mr. Fletcher, during all these years, for his Castoria.

STOCKS STRONG ON BOSTON EXCHANGE

Prices Irregular at Opening, but Advance During the Morning

Irregularity marked price changes in Boston when business began on the Stock Exchange and this situation prevailed during the morning. By the second hour most active issues had advanced.

Largest gains were made by American Agricultural Chemical, Mohawk, Old Dominion, United and Pacific Mills, they having advanced from one to ten points. The big jump was by the last named. Others which had moved fractionally forward included American Telephone, Calumet & Arizona, East Butte, Stewart, U. S. Smelting, Ventura Oil, Torrington, Swift & Co., International, Libby, Root & Van Dervoort and Cuba Portland Cement.

Among issues to decline were Punta Alegre, Parish & Bingham, Gray & Davis and National Leather, they having receded from fractions to a point.

Especially active stocks were Parish & Bingham, National Leather and Ventura. The market was strong by noon.

A Houghton correspondent wired the Boston News Bureau: "The Mayflower-Old Colony shaft at a depth of 1,453 feet has cut through five feet of copper rock which has every physical characteristic of the lode although the local management will not so pronounce it."

STEELS WEAK, MOTORS ARE HIGHER

Crucible Slumps in Early Trading, While Baldwin Sags Several Points

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks were rather weak in New York at noon, the majority having receded during the morning. The market was strong in spots, however. It was also active. Steels were weak as a group. Crucible led the recessional. At its forenoon lowest it was off more than sixteen points. Baldwin opened with more than two points gain and at its highest for the year, but was prominent in the reaction. At its lowest it had declined more than five points. American Locomotive also sold at its 1919 highest. By noon the prices ruled above the lowest level.

By 12 o'clock Crucible was off 13⅝ at 181, Baldwin was off 4⅝ at 124½ and Bethlehem B 2⅝ at 93⅞. U. S. Steel had receded ⅝ to 106⅝, after selling as low as 106⅝, and as high as 107⅝.

Among other issues to show substantial losses were American Locomotive, Corn Products, General Motors, Mexican Petroleum, Pan American and Texas & Pacific. They had receded from two to four points.

Strong stocks included Marine common and preferred, American International, Hide and Leather common and preferred, Central Leather, United Cigar Stores, Studebaker, Maxwell and Chandler. They were up from two to fifteen points, Chandler advancing the most.

Trading was attended by considerable excitement at times. Call money opened at 5½ per cent.

QUICK SLUMP FOR CRUCIBLE.

Prices advanced at the opening, but gains were not so large as during the rally at yesterday's close. Demand from the outside continued, but was not as general as at previous openings this week. Wall Street was disposed to take profits and the bears rallied and were confident that stocks were due to react to some extent at least. Car and Foundry soon sold at a record highest price and there were good gains by a number of issues. But Crucible began with 3⅝ decline and within a few minutes was more than fourteen points below Wednesday's closing price. Baldwin receded more than two points after advancing almost three. The weakness of Crucible and Baldwin caused selling all around the room.

MARKET BECAME IRREGULAR.

The market soon became irregular, but at the end of the first hour the majority of issues were showing gains. Speculation was brisk, as may be judged from the fact that first hour transactions totalled almost half a million shares. As regards the stock loan market, New York statements were:

"Crucible Steel renewed flat, but new loans were made at 2 per cent. interest. Other rates were: United States Steel common, 6 per cent.; industrials generally ⅛ per cent.; railroads 4 per cent. and Canadian Pacific and American Telephone 2 per cent.

"Those who make a specialty of lending stocks agreed in the statement that the sleeping short account standing for a long time in the steel industrials was very large with the most excessive borrowing in U. S. Steel, and for that reason they did not expect the movement to end until there has been a rise in U. S. Steel, which will put other movements in that stock in the shade."

Boston Financial Notes

On September 9 directors of the Utah, Chino, Ray and Nevada Copper Companies will meet for dividend action.

Leverett A. Haskell has been elected assistant treasurer of the Beacon Trust Company.

Joseph S. Fay and Charles P. Greenough, 2d, long members of the Boston Stock Exchange, have become associated with Hayden, Stone and Company and Tucker, Anthony and Company, respectively.

C. Sinclair Weeks and A. Stanley North have been appointed assistant cashiers of the First National Bank of Boston.

In the outside market Draper Corporation advanced approximately $10 per share to 138 following the announcement that the rate had been increased from $8 per annum to $12 by the declaration of a quarterly dividend of $3 per share.

It is expected that August net profits of the Carson Hill Gold Mining Co. will approximate $80,000, as it treated about 7,000 tons of ore during the month and its production expense has been reduced until it does not much exceed $4 a ton.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

A dividend of Two Dollars per share will be paid on Wednesday, Oct. 15, 1919, to stockholders of record at the close of business on Saturday, Sept. 20, 1919.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN SEPTEMBER 4, 1919. BOSTON

Now Is the Time for People of the United States to Decide on the Adoption of the League of Nations

All patriotic men and women should inform themselves upon the merits of this vital national question by hearing United States Senator Reed and other speakers of national importance at Symphony Hall September 10. It is a question of more importance to the entire country than any since slavery days and will be debated with vigor in every section of the Union.

Next Wednesday evening, September 10, United States Senator James A. Reed, from Missouri, will address the people of Massachusetts at Symphony Hall against committing the United States, through the ratification of the so-called League of Nations, to a career of international, European intrigue and to the endless wars which result from those intrigues.

The greatest debate which America ever knew has now begun. It involves the greatest issue which has faced the nation since the slavery days. It is a far greater debate than any that occurred in the slavery days, because it is national in its character and it will decide the course of the nation for all time; while no one debate on slavery involved the whole issue of slavery and no debate on any single phase of the slave question involved the whole nation at one time.

In all probability we are entering upon a national debate greater in its dimensions and in its importance than the world has ever seen. The President opens the debate this week in a campaign tour in behalf of this British League of Nations. Those who believe that the bridge which carried us all these years over the most turbulent currents of our national life ought not to be abandoned for an untried structure, of which every plank that has so far been examined has proved rotten, will reply to the President wherever they can get an audience.

If the American people are fit for self-government; if this country is really a democracy, we shall have to turn our attention somewhat from baseball and the movies and the automobiles and other pleasures, and give serious attention to the task of deciding which way we shall send the Republic.

We know that we stand at the parting of the ways. We know that we must determine within the next few weeks if the Republic shall continue in its old course of splendid isolation adopted and recommended to us by the forefathers, a course during which we have grown great, and have, by our example, done more good to the world than any military crusade ever did at any time down through the years. We know that we must decide within the next few weeks whether we shall permit foreign nations to declare war and make peace for us. We know that we must determine within the next few weeks whether we shall guarantee, with the blood of our young men and with all our wealth, the enormous spoils which Great Britain has accumulated during 200 years of a policy of "blood and iron," of international bullying and deception, treachery and assassination. We know that we must decide within the next few weeks whether we are to add our power to the power of Great Britain to hold down Egypt's 20,000,000, India's 300,000,000, Ireland's 4,000,000 and the millions in Arabia and Africa and Persia, all of whom are demanding freedom from the British yoke under the right of self-determination. We know that within a few weeks we must decide whether we shall guarantee with our blood and treasure the loot which Japan has accumulated in the Far East during twenty-five years of aggression and treachery; whether we are to guarantee with America's very life blood Japan's yoke upon 20 million Christians in Korea, and 40 million Chinese in Shantung, and her contemplated yoke upon 400 million of Chinese in China. We know that we must decide within the next few weeks whether we are to continue to earn the hatred of the 150 million people in Russia and to be a tool for the predatory interests of Great Britain and of their banker usurers and to stand guard over sensibilities of the British monarchical and aristocratic class against the Republics of Russia, Germany, Austria and Hungary.

In short, we are to determine within the next few weeks whether we are to go into a deal with the governments of 100 million people in Europe which have by no means the support of their people in an attempt to control for imperialistic purposes the rest of Europe; and whether we are to join with Japan and England in the attempt to dominate almost 1,000 million human beings in the East. All these things we shall undertake to do if we accept the scheme for a League of Nations drawn by a British general, adopted by British politicians and bankers and aristocrats for the protection of Great Britain and under which Great Britain gets five votes to our one.

If we are really a democracy, now is the time to show it. Now is the time to decide for ourselves what course we shall take. Every citizen who can hear any intelligent discussion on either side of this fearful question commits a moral treason if he fails to avail himself of that opportunity.

Come to hear Senator Reed, one of America's greatest public speakers, at Symphony Hall next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock!

Lawyers' Convention Most Important Event

A national convention of lawyers is, always has been and always will be, an interesting and an important event in the current history of any nation under democratic forms of government.

In America a convention of lawyers has always been more interesting than a convention of lawyers in any other country, because nowhere else have lawyers enjoyed the importance and played the distinguished parts in the history of their country. The few exceptions among the leaders of our country during its first hundred years—that is, during its critical, formative period—who were not lawyers, make more emphatic the statement that our leadership during that great period was a leadership of lawyers.

Since the Civil War, however, and especially since the growth of railroad influence, a few lawyers have made more money perhaps, but the profession has rapidly declined in public esteem and still more rapidly in public service. The lawyers whose income has been the largest during the last fifty years have too often been the lawyers who formed part of the entourage of some big, predatory schemer, the janizaries of the oppressor and lawbreaker. The lawyer's client owned him, owned his brain and heart and conscience. If his client wanted to see him he summoned him to his office; he does not, as in the old days, think of reparing to his lawyer's office. Too often he is distinguished for what Elihu Root's best client declared he liked most about Mr. Root, namely, Root's ability to tell him not what the law was, but how he could avoid the penalties of the law in doing what the law prohibited him to do. Root's distinction lay not in his ability to guide his client in the direction the law pointed out, but in his ability to suggest ways of breaking the law and yet keeping out of jail. This prostitution of the legal profession has caused many of its leaders to believe in the decline of the leadership of the profession. In America public life is permanent and inherent in conditions quite outside of the lawyer's control.

But it is not so. It obviously is not so. They abolished lawyers in Russia under the Bolsheviki, but what they did was merely to abolish a lickspittle, sycophantic crowd of jackals to the old bureaucracy who called themselves lawyers and substituted under another name men who did the work of lawyers. While to err is human, while there are two sides to every question, while the public wants guidance, while the power to reason upon a question and to state the results of the reasoning clearly is important in a democracy, the value of a profession which is trained to reason and to expound will never be less than of the first importance while the profession which enjoys that training devotes it to the public interests. The profession which enjoys it loses its value and loses its leadership only when it ceases to lead in the public interests and only when it ceases to use its training for public good. This has been the reason for the decline of the influence of the legal profession during the last fifty years. Bar associations have been organizations to whitewash evil deeds of the powerful and to give credit to schemes calculated to injure the public welfare.

Not yet has the profession as a whole awakened to its apostacy, but there are signs of its uneasy sleep which forbode an awakening. When lawyers' conventions and bar associations cease to deal with dilettante reforms in order to avoid attention to real reforms and cease to attempt to promote reactionary schemes under the alias of reform, the power which inheres in the training of the profession is bound to return.

This newspaper hopes that some small beginning may be made in the lawyers' convention now being held at Boston.

Letters to the Editor

Unfair to Depositors

Editor Boston American:

Bank Commissioner Thorndike in a communication published recently in the Boston papers is represented as saying that the banks have acted fairly towards the public, and that statements appearing in an advertisement of mine were "wrong, misleading to the people, and unjust to the savings banks." I do not like to enter into any controversy with the supervisor of our banking institutions, but I consider him broad-minded enough to stand for opinions dissenting from those expressed by himself. Only an official autocrat, which the commissioner is not, would have his views unchallenged.

It is not necessary to befog the issue of fairness with generalities. I yield to no man in the disposition to be absolutely fair, or in asserting that the banks of Massachusetts stand as high as any in the country. All are good, and the supervisor is stringent. To allege unfairness is not to instill into the breast of anyone the fear for the safety of any money he might deposit, or may have deposited in any bank.

Although all banks are safe, all are not fair to depositors. I stated that in the advertisement which called forth comment by the commissioner, and I enunciate the charge in this letter. What was there unfair in my announcement? I said that the law permits savings banks to pay 5 per cent. interest, and that they could have done so. I repeat this statement because it is true. They have been unfair because instead of paying to depositors a proper share of their earnings, banks in times past have built up large surpluses, or erected fancy-looking buildings, or loaned to favored individuals, as the reports of Commissioner Thorndike show, at the rate of 3, 3½, 3 and 3¼ per cent. It is only recently that any number of them has paid 4½ per cent.; and this, as I said in the advertisement, because trust companies like the Tremont Trust Co. forced them to pay that rate.

Was it unfair to declare that if the Tremont Trust Co. can pay interest monthly on savings at the rate of 4½ per cent.; can permit withdrawals at any time practically without the loss of interest, and can pay satisfactory dividends to its stockholders, then those savings banks which pay interest only once in three months, and those which pay only once in six months, besides punishing withdrawals between interest periods by the loss of interest, and paying no dividends on stock, should be able to pay more interest than they are paying

Were those bankers fair who opposed vigorously for years the just recommendation of the commissioner that savings banks place deposits on interest monthly? The official was conservative; he did not suggest that interest be paid each month. It was the savings banks and trust companies which fathered and pushed through the pernicious bill to prohibit a company like the Tremont Trust Company from paying interest monthly when it wanted to pay. Were it not for the initiative and referendum the scheme of the opponents of monthly payments would have prevailed.

I reaffirm my charge that depositors have not received a square deal from the savings banks and the savings departments of trust companies. I did not realize the extent of their unfairness until their selfish efforts to prevent monthly payments by the Tremont Trust Company induced me to make a study of rates of interest and their policies.

GOD OF BOW CAPTURES BIG WHITE WAY

Read of Cupid's Victories in the Boston Sunday Advertiser

LOVE has captured Broadway! In less than a week no less than eight victories for the God of the Bow have been registered at one New York theatre. Young actors and actresses, supposedly impervious to Cupid's darts, have capitulated unconditionally. Other places of amusement along the Great White Way have been similarly affected. Theatre managers are somewhat perturbed. The epidemic is worse than the actors' strike. A strike can be mediated.

The causes of the sudden rushing into matrimony some of New York's favorite footlight performers remain unexplained. John Cort, whose production it was that suffered the heaviest casualties, gave it as his opinion that the spirit of Brigham Young was stalking around the place." Be that as it may, you will enjoy reading the details of this remarkable epidemic which are duly set forth in next Sunday's Advertiser. And there are some fascinating photographs of the newly mated stage stars as well.

Science believes itself on the verge of one of the most important discoveries in history. If the long-bearded savants can only discover the secret of the lowly firefly, find out how he produces light without heat—actually with a loss of heat, for that matter—we shall have solved the lighting problem of the world, conflagrations such as the Salem fire will be relegated to ancient history, and all of us will be much better off.

Dr. W. H. Ballou, who has written many interesting analyses of scientific problems for the Advertiser in the past year, this week takes up this problem of "cold light" as he calls it. He explains all that science knows of the firefly, the luminous fishes that inhabit the ocean miles below the surface, and the tiny beings whose glowing bodies are responsible for what we call the "phosphorescence" of the waves.

Every parent knows how hard it is to arouse the interest of a child in matters of personal hygiene. Furthermore, a lesson, once learned, rarely sticks. The child forgets.

This being so, the New York Academy of Medicine recently decided to combine the two matters into one sugar-coated pill which the boy could not help but swallow. Clowns were engaged, and—but the full story is too long to be told in this column. Sunday's Advertiser contains a full account of the success of the New York doctors, the methods the professional funny men employed in teaching their adoring charges, and what they taught.

UNREST THAT SEIZES BOTH HUMANS AND BEASTS

By Winifred Black

EVERY night for the last week Punch has been missing from his place by the fire.

Punch isn't his name really—his name is Pinchot—but he's an Irish terrier, red and shaggy and full of every kind of mischief that ever a dog could think of, so of course Pinchot was turned into Pinch, and then into Punch, and there are some misguided youths who even call him Pep, and the worst of it is Punch answers when they do it.

He's a good fellow is Punch, in his own way.

Brave, loyal, watchful, intelligent—and a great stay-at-home. He likes to stand by the gate and watch people pass on the other side of the street, and make remarks about them to the dog next door as they go by. Sometimes I'm glad he speaks nothing but the language of dogs, for from the sound of his bark I'm afraid he sometimes says rather disrespectful things. But he never seems to care to do much exploring away from home.

Last week, one night, we noticed that he was gone. We stood on the porch and called him all his various names; we even whistled, those of us who can do such a thing—but no Punch. In the morning, about 5:00 o'clock, there was a great barking at the gate, and there stood Punch, delighted to get home again, but with an air of something foreign and strange about him that we couldn't quite understand. The next night he disappeared again—and then again.

Last night, one of the neighbor's boys came over, and who do you think he had with him?

Who but Mr. Pinchot, trying to look as innocent as a saint, and where do you think the neighbor's boy had found that dog?

Why, down at the docks aboard a little fishing smack, sitting up as comfortable as you please on a coil of ropes in the stern of the boat, perfectly at home and answering in plain Irish every time one of the fishermen spoke to him in Italian.

"Presto," he understood, they said, just as well as they did, and every night for a week there he'd been on hand to the minute just as the fleet was pulling out to go beyond the headlands out to the deep sea fishing grounds.

"Pinchot, you're very like a man, very like indeed!

"Whisper, Pinchot; cock up that knowing ear of yours. I have something to tell you. I never liked you so well as I like you now—when I have learned that you hate the fussing and the prisoning as much as I do.

"I wish I could go, too, Pinchot. I'd love it above all things, the night and the stars and the rush of the water against the gunwales of the little boat, a broad-chested fisherman singing in liquid Italian over his nets, the wild wind calling, and all the little shut-in world of little shut-in cares far, far behind.

"But I am a woman, Pinchot, and I must stay at home, for such is the lot and heritage of my kind."
